TOGO SMASHES RUSSIAN FLEET

Report from Tokyo Says He Has Frustrated Its Effort to Escape.

RIESHITELNI SEIZED

BALTIC FLEET MAKES READY

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

London, Aug. 12.—The Brussels correspondent of the Daily Telegraph declares that two vessels of the Russian Black sea fleet have already passed the Dardanelles without the interposition of any difficulty on the part of the Turkish government.

Cronstadt, Aug. 11.—Admiral Birileff, in command of the naval forces here, today ordered Vice Admiral Rojestvensky, commander of the Baltic fleet, and his staff, to take up their quarters on board the battleship Souvaroff, and to be in readiness to sail on Aug. 14.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—A dispatch to a news agency from Tokyo announces definitely that Admiral Togo has frustrated the attempt of the Port Arthur squadron to escape, and adds that the Port Arthur forts participated with the warships in the engagement, indicating, if true, that the fighting occurred close to the port.

Japanese Seize the Rieshitelni.

CHEFOO, Aug. 12, 6 A. M.—A boarding party from Japanese torpedo boat destroyers boarded the dismantled Russian torpedo boat destroyer Rieshitelni this morning at 3:30 o'clock. The Japanese discharged their small arms, and during the firing a Russian was wounded.

Daybreak showed a third Japanese destroyer towing the Rieshitelni out of the harbor, and all disappeared. The Japanese consul claims that the Japanese ships were ignorant of the dismantling of the Rieshitelni. An Associated Press representative, however, informed the Japanese naval officers of the fact when he visited the two Japanese destroyers at 2:30 o'clock this morning.

Shortly after the arrival of the Rieshitelni here the Chinese admiral, Sah, sent an officer on board who demanded that the destroyer either leave the port or disarm. It had previously been ascertained that her engines were disabled. The captain of the Rieshitelni agreed to render the engines absolutely useless and to disarm in such a manner as Admiral Sah demanded. He also requested the Chinese admiral to indicate a position near the shore where the destroyer might lie till the end of the war, under the protection of the Chinese government.

The passengers of the Rieshitelni included two women, one of whom is said to be the wife of Gen. Stoessel. It is evident that grave reasons caused the Rieshitelni to undertake her hazardous voyage. Presumably she came here to file urgent dispatches.

It is understood that the Chinese admiral discovered the presence of the Japanese torpedo boat destroyers and presented the same demands to them that he had earlier given to the Rieshitelni, namely, either to leave port or disarm. Darkness prevented a close inspection of the Japanese destroyers, but outwardly they appeared to be in good condition. A Japanese officer who was talking over the side of one of the vessels with the correspondent of the Associated Press was reprimanded by a superior officer and compelled to cease.

St. Petersburg Awaits News.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 12.—(1:37 a. m.)—Public anxiety regarding the fate of the Port Arthur squadron, which has reached the highest pitch, remained unrelieved when the people of St. Petersburg retired tonight.

The reports from Tokyo and Chefoo of the sea fight which followed the departure of the squadron are so conflicting and inconclusive that a strong hope exists that the Russian ships succeeded in breaking through the Japanese fleet.

RUSSIA'S EYES ON KUROPATKIN

Will He Abandon Liao-Yang and Its Stores, or Give Battle?

POSITION IS STRONG

Japanese Column Is Reported to Be Hurriedly Pressing Towards Mukden.

ROADS ARE IN BAD SHAPE

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]
(Copyright, 1904, By New York Herald Co.)

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—A very serious battle has taken place at Yudiaze, concerning which details are withheld.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

St. Petersburg, Aug. 12., 2:25 a. m.—Even with the absorbing topic of the escape of the Port Arthur squadron, the question whether Gen. Kuropatkin will accept or refuse a general engagement at Liao-Yang continues to be a subject of the liveliest interest. Experts of the bureau of operations incline to the belief that a collision between the main forces is inevitable. Col. Dbororlaky, assistant chief of the bureau, said to the Associated Press:

"Speaking from a purely military point of view, I do not see how a combat can be avoided at this stage. Personally, I am not inclined to attach credence to the reports that our army is already moving northward. The withdrawal of a large force in the face of a superior force closely pressing our position to the east and south would involve the risk of an immediate attack, which would find us in a position of still greater inferiority.

"There are two other considerations remaining. Firstly, there is at Liao-Yang an enormous accumulation of stores, which it would be necessary to sacrifice, and secondly, the Russians are in possession of fortifications of exceptional strength which discount the numerical superiority of the foe. One of our best engineers, Gen. Velichko, designed and supervised the construction of these defenses, which are, therefore, the best that military science can devise."

Could Withstand Long Siege.

If Col. Dbororlaky's view be correct, it is pointed out that Gen. Kuropatkin might reasonably expect to hold out at Liao-Yang for some time, and that he could even stand a siege and be able to depend on his enormous stores to feed his army—in case the Japanese cut off his communications—pending the arrival of reinforcements from the north.

The persistent report that Lieut.-Gen. Linevitch is moving from Vladivostok toward Mukden with from 20,000 to 30,000 men lends color to this version. It is also pointed out that if the Russians took such care to fortify Liao-Yang, it was with a view of holding it against a superior force.

Notwithstanding these considerations of a purely military character, the belief is very prevalent outside as well as inside the war office that Gen. Kuropatkin has made up his mind to avoid staking the whole future of the campaign upon the issue of an engagement at this stage, and that he has resolved at all cost to retire to the north, if he has not already done so.

Some strategists consider that the daring scope of the enveloping movements of the Japanese show they are aware that Liao-Yang is bereft of a majority of its garrison.

Japanese Near An Ping.

LIAO-YANG, Tuesday, Aug. 9.—(Delayed in Transmission.)—A correspondent of the Associated Press who has just returned from An-Ping, 13 miles east of Liao-Yang, says the Japanese are occupying Hou-Tala-Tse, about 14 miles west of Liao-Yang. They are not advancing, but are carefully reconnoitering within a mile of An-Ping. Two strong Japanese columns are reported to be hurriedly pressing forward, one toward Mukden and the other in the direction of the Yantai coal mines.

The roads are in very bad condition owing to the rain of the past few days.

WHOLE REGIMENTS PERISHED AT PORT ARTHUR'S STORMING

Captain of the Russian Torpedo Boat Destroyer Rieshitelni Describes Carnage as Ghastly.

Men Died from Exhaustion.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]
(Copyright, 1904, By New York Herald Co.)

CHEFOO, Aug. 11.—The Russian torpedo boat destroyer Rieshitelni from Port Arthur arrived in Chefoo harbor at an early hour this morning. Her officers seemed worn out, and landed and went to sleep at a hotel, declining even to receive a visit from their own consul. They said: "We are overwrought." The destroyer was not flying her flag.

In an interview later in the day, Capt. Shestakooski of the destroyer expressed the opinion that Port Arthur cannot be taken. He said the surroundings of the town were covered with corpses, but the Russian losses had been small. He also said the Russian fleet, consisting of six battleships and four cruisers, crossed the mine field within two hours yesterday morning, but four gunboats and half the torpedo boat flotilla remained behind.

The Russians intended running to Vladivostok, where, it was hoped, the fleet would be reinforced by some cruisers purchased from Argentina.

Three days ago, when the Japanese attacked the main line of fortifications at Port Arthur, whole regiments were annihilated, Capt. Shestakooski said. The Russians were worn out from their heavy duty and men dropped from exhaustion by the side of their arms. Gen. Stoessel rode along the line urging them to be brave men for God and their fatherland. At daylight the Japanese concentrated their reserves and made one final attack, in which they swept the Russians back. In one fortified position out of a force of 200 men, only two survived. More than half succumbed to exhaustion.

On Tuesday last the Russians made a stealthy attack, crawling among the rocks and up mountain sides. The first line rushed the Japanese outposts and fighting ensued at close quarters. Simultaneously the Russian fleet opened fire with its guns from 12 to 6-inch. Finally Taku mountain was again captured by the Russians, who now hold the main line. The carnage is described as ghastly.

PHIPPS CONTEST WILL NOW GO ON

First Step in a Hot Legal Fight to Be Taken in Denver Next Week.

DECISION OF THE JUDGE

The divorce proceedings brought by Lawrence C. Phipps against Mrs. Genevieve C. Phipps may be fought out in Denver. If not there, the legal battle will be transferred to the Allegheny county courts. The Denver court yesterday refused the motion made on behalf of Mrs. Phipps that the service of notice of the suit upon her was illegal and executed by an unauthorized person.

James S. Young, local attorney for Mrs. Phipps, refused to discuss the situation yesterday any further than to say the suit will take the same course of any similar case.

An adverse decision on Mrs. Phipps' claim of illegal service will force her to meet the complaint against her with an answer or let the case go by default. An answer will be filed and at an early date, probably within a week. A legal fight, every step of the way, is assured and has been since Mr. Phipps left this city, after the futile effort toward settlement.

Those nearest to the case hold that the next contention will be the establishment of the legal residence of the litigants. In bringing this suit in the Denver courts Mr. Phipps has declared his residence to be in Colorado. Meanwhile Mrs. Phipps has taken up her home at Grandview, this city, in compliance with her contention that Pittsburgh is the legal residence of the family. This issue would have eventually presented itself, even if service had been declared invalid, but would have been delayed four months, during which period Mr. Phipps would have had to serve his wife with an "alias" summons by advertising.

If all attempts to bring the issue to Pittsburgh fail, it is the determination of Mrs. Phipps to fight the case to the end in Denver or wherever may be necessary. A special telegram from Denver to The Gazette follows:

"The summons served upon Mrs. Genevieve Chandler Phipps in the divorce case brought against her by Lawrence C. Phipps, will stand, is the decision of Judge Mullins, and Mrs. Phipps will have to plead within five days or default may be entered against her. The three great financial corporations, J. P. Morgan & Co., the United States Trust Company and the United States Steel Corporation, involved in the litigation between the Phipps', are let out of the suit entirely. The court held that they may declare dividends to Mrs. Phipps or dispose of any property in her name outside of Colorado. Property in Colorado claimed by Mr. Phipps and standing in the name of his wife comes under the jurisdiction of the court and remains subject to its order, but the three corporations named being nonresident cannot be held on the summons made on them.

"Attorney Hughes for Mr. Phipps asked that a rule to plead in five days be made on Mrs. Phipps. Attorney Leftwich replied: 'She is 2,500 miles away from here and cannot come to this state. Why should your honor hurry this defendant?' Judge Mullins decided that in view of the time which had already passed a rule to plead in five days should be made."

EIGHT LIVES LOST IN PITTSBURGH GOLD MINE

Large Pond Near Entrance Gave Way and Flooded the Shaft.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 11.—A special to the News and Observer from Salisbury, N. C., says: "Information has been received here tonight that the Barringer gold mine, located near Gold Hill, N. C., Rowan county, was suddenly flooded with water late this afternoon, causing the instant death of eight men employed in the mine.

The dead are: William Canup, William Stirewalt, Joseph Magrum, Robert Deberry, Samuel Price and three others whose names are unobtainable.

Nine men were in the mine shaft when a large pond located near the entrance to the mine suddenly broke loose, the breakage being caused by excessive rains, the waters rushing in terrific and deadly force to a depth of about 100 feet upon the men, who were powerless to save themselves.

Thomas Moyl, manager of the plant, was the only one to escape death. The mine is filled with water tonight and none of the dead bodies have yet been recovered. An unusual downpour of rain is reported in the vicinity of the mine this afternoon, much damage being done to property. The flooded mine is the property of the Whitney Reduction Company of Salisbury and Pittsburgh, Pa., and has been operated for a number of years.

COSSACK CHARGE SAVED DAY FOR THE RUSSIANS

SIN-TSIN-TIN, Aug. 10.—(Delayed in Transmission.)—The Russians made another attack on Tsi-An-Schan, 36 miles south of Sin-Tsin-Tin, on the evening of August 7, chasing out the Japanese, who occupied commanding positions. The Russians suffered considerably in approaching the Japanese position under a murderous fire.

It was impossible at the time either to advance or retreat and the attempt to dislodge the enemy seemed hopeless. Finally the Cossacks charged on foot with the saber and carried the position. The Japanese fled toward Saimatzeg.

PRESIDENT WARD CALLED POLICE

Threatened Force When Brand Appealed in Contest Over Bond Bill.

LIE PASSED BETWEEN THEM

Stormy scenes attended the passage of the $5,000,000 bond ordinance on second reading in common council yesterday afternoon, President Ward calling upon the sergeant-at-arms to force Councilman Brand of the Seventeenth ward to take his seat because Brand persisted in demanding an appeal from the decision of the chair, which Ward refused to grant. At another time the lie passed between Ward and Brand. Director Bigelow failed to make good his claim that he would produce enough votes to suspend the rules and pass the bill finally.

He had declared he would have all the Citizens members in attendance and that he would gain more recruits from the Republicans. He failed to gain a single member from the Republicans, besides the three—Gulland, Cronmiller and Joyce—who voted for the ordinance at the previous meeting. The Republicans held their own and several Citizens were absent on account of grievances against the administration.

A call for a special meeting of both branches of councils for next Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock will be issued today by Presidents Ward and Wightman. The call for common council will be for the final passage of the bond ordinance, advanced yesterday one reading, and select will be called to pass the street car ordinances, to be reported out of the corporations committee, and also to concur with common council on the bond ordinance. To pass the bond ordinance in select council requires only a majority vote, as there will be but one reading. There is likely to be a fight in select council over both the bond bill and the traction ordinances.

The Republicans proposed a number of amendments to the bond bill yesterday, but they were smothered as fast as they were introduced. The majority had them

FIGHT DUEL WITH PISTOLS ON A NEW YORK STREET

Principals, Accompanied by Seconds, Pepper Away at Each Other, but Only Succeed in Shooting a Small Boy Through the Back.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—A duel with pistols was fought here today in Fourth street in sight of many pleasure seekers who watched the duelists from the Recreation pier at Third street and the East river. Neither of the principals was injured, but one of the bullets hit a small boy, Abraham Garlick, in the back near the left shoulder, and passed entirely through him. He pluckily walked to his home and then to a physician's office, where his wound was dressed.

Tony Rodi, 25 years old, and John Doncelo, aged 25, had a quarrel in a tailor shop in which they are both employed. Rodi says that Doncelo finally challenged him to fight it out with pistols, and he agreed. They left the shop at the noon hour, bought revolvers and together walked to the river. Accompanying them were two men who acted as seconds.

When they reached Lewis street the seconds measured off 10 paces, the men took positions and at a signal began shooting. One man fired five times and the other four. The police were attracted by the shooting and Rodi and his second were arrested, but the other two men escaped. Later Abraham Garlick, the boy who was hit, made a charge of felonious assault against Rodi, on which the prisoner was held in $1,000 bail.

FILIPINOS NEED A GUIDING HAND

FEW ARE EDUCATED

School System Would Go to Pieces if Left to Natives of the Islands.

ADDRESS TO GREAT AUDIENCE

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Chautauqua, N. Y., Aug. 11.—The event of the day was the visit of Secretary Taft, who delivered an address on "Our Duty in the Philippines" here this afternoon. He came to Lakewood in the private yacht of President Chase, of the Jamestown & Lake railroad. He was met at Lakewood by Dr. George E. Vincent, President W. H. Hickman, of the board of trustees, and by C. D. Massey, C. D. Firestone, Dr. W. J. Duncan, J. Franklin Hunt and Dr. Julius King of the board of trustees. He is accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Herron, and Miss Green of Cincinnati. Upon arriving at Chautauqua they were driven at once to Bishop Vincent's cottage, going to the Hotel Alenaeum later on.

When asked by a Gazette correspondent why he had come to Chautauqua when he had refused to go so many places, Secretary Taft said: "Dr. George Vincent is one of my warmest friends, and when he asked me to speak here I very gladly consented, as I had never been here and was interested in this great community. Dr. George Vincent and I were college friends and have always kept up the friendship. I was on the committee to inform him of his election to the presidency of University of Cincinnati."

Greeted by Great Audience.

When Secretary Taft appeared upon the platform he was given the Chautauqua salute by the largest audience of several seasons. In beginning his address he said the English student of colonial government thought much more popular control had been conferred on the people of the Philippine islands than was wise, while the American critics, who, he said, "like to style themselves anti-imperialists," condemn the course of the United States in the islands on the ground that sufficient self-government has not been extended to the Filipinos. He (Taft) believed that the course taken is somewhat near the golden mean. The secretary then entered on a history of the islands, with a view to explaining what is necessary in their education to make them self-governing, and presented his views to show why he thinks the problem possible of solution.

"The willingness of the natives to embrace Christianity, their gentle nature and their love of the solemn and beautiful ceremonies of the Catholic church," said the secretary, "enabled the friars to spread Christianity throughout the islands with remarkable rapidity." Secretary Taft said religious questions are being adjusted satisfactorily, due to the patience, liberality and absence of narrow sectarian prejudice on the part of Catholics and Protestants alike interested in the matter."

Ninety Per Cent Uneducated.

Speaking of the great body of Filipinos who are to be distinguished from the educated members of the community, and which he estimates at 90 per cent, he said that they are so separated from modern civilizing influences that they may be easily influenced by any one of their people of wealth and education. The Christian Filipinos when sufficiently educated are led to understand and embrace American and European ideals, "the capacity for development of the 90 per cent of ignorant Filipinos is fairly shown in the education and refinement that we find in the comparatively small educated class in the islands," said the secretary. This class, he said, is quick, bright, full of courtesy, brave and theoretically in favor of civil liberty, and are natural and fluent speakers. He added:

"It is the failure to identify themselves with the government as part of it and as responsible for its proper administration, that renders the great body of the Filipino people at present unfit for complete self-government and the introduction of the system of jury trial."

The speaker said that education is necessary and that the Filipinos must be taught governmental responsibility and made to understand that public offices

BIG SILK MILL FOR ECONOMY

Two Paterson Concerns Are to Consolidate in Beaver County.

EMPLOY 1,800 GIRLS

Old Woolen Factory Building Selected, and It Is to Be Greatly Enlarged.

EMPLOYMENT IS LUCRATIVE

By a deal concluded yesterday afternoon, the largest silk mill in Pennsylvania is to be located at once in the new town of Economy. The negotiations, which have been pending for several months, were brought to a focus by the arrival in this city several days ago of J. P. Shorrock of Paterson, N. J., who is interested in a silk mill in that place and who represents in this deal other financial interests.

The new company, which is to be known as the Economy Silk Manufacturing Company, will include two mills now in operation in Paterson and will be reinforced by capital furnished by a large importer of silks who is a New Yorker. An application for a charter specifying a capital of $50,000 will be filed at once.

The site of the new plant is the old Economy woolen mill, often referred to as the "Economy silk mill," which was operated for many years by the Economites.

Building to Be Greatly Enlarged.

The building, as it now stands, is a four-story brick, 192x40 feet, on the river bank between Ambridge and Economy, near the Economy orchard. Work will be begun at once, extending the length of the building from 192 to 480 feet, while the width will be increased from 40 to 80 feet.

Orders have been given for the dismantlement of the two mills in Paterson and their machinery and equipment will be forwarded to this city. One of these mills is now operating 280 looms and the other 400 looms. When these looms are established here they will be increased to make the total number 1,000. Other machinery, in proportion, will be installed and the old mill will be thoroughly renovated and equipped with modern appliances.

Between 1,500 and 1,800 girls will be employed. The labor calls for skill and intelligence far above the average in factories, and the employes are paid from $10 to $20 a week.

Girls Must Have Soft Hands.

The manufacture of silk calls for scrupulous cleanliness on the part of the girls employed, while absolutely smooth and soft hands are one of the essentials. The fine fiber of the silk is readily torn and defaced by touching any roughness or hardness of the skin, while contact with dirt or foreign matter causes decay in the material. While the looms work automatically, requiring little labor on the part of the monitors, a certain element of skill, care and intelligence is necessary. Cleanliness and softness of hands, together with lightness of touch, are the chief attributes looked for in the employes.

Wages are usually based upon piece work, or rather by yardage, with an average allowance of 10 cents a yard. Under this scale the more skilled worker often accomplishes a weave of 25 to 30 yards a day, and in exceptional cases more.

Other Industries May Follow.

It is said if the new venture meets with success in securing or causing to migrate a sufficient number of girls adaptable to the work, other manufactures of the same character can be induced to locate at Economy. Several silk manufacturers, whose interest has been firmly intrenched in Paterson for many years, are watching with keen interest the result of this new venture in securing sufficient competent employes.

Locating the mill in Economy was accomplished by the Real Estate Trust Company, acting as agents for the Liberty Land Company, which has control of the Economy property, of which department W. A. Avey is manager.

Who the incorporators of the new concern are and the names of the two mills to be consolidated will not be made known until the incorporation papers are properly prepared for filing, which, it is expected, will be early next week.

MONTANA MAN HUNT.

Fugitive Takes Refuge in Gov. Toole's House, Where He Shoots and Kills Himself.

HELENA, MONT., Aug. 11.—Isaac Gravelle, on trial for robbing a powder house near Helena last September, which was used in wrecking Northern Pacific trains, committed suicide this afternoon in the basement of Gov. Toole's home. Gravelle escaped from the Lewis and Clark county jail as he was about to be taken to the court room across the street. He first fatally shot Tony Korizek, a deputy sheriff.

Pursued by deputies, Gravelle took refuge in an alley beside the residence of Gov. Toole. A pistol fight took place in the alley, and Gravelle then ran into the basement of the governor's house, where he shot and killed himself. When his body was picked up he was found to have been wounded several times in his fight with the deputies.

BETTING TWO TO ONE ON ROOSEVELT'S ELECTION

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(Special.)—A customer of Wasserman Bros. today bet $500 to $250 that Roosevelt would be elected president. These are the largest odds on Roosevelt yet reported. It was said on the curb that there was very little Parker money offering, and that the odds up to yesterday were 10 to 7 on Roosevelt. Wasserman Bros. offered on the floor of the stock exchange $10,000 at 10 to 6 on Roosevelt. The first betting in Wall street was 10 to 7½. Fred H. Brooks today bet $2,000 to $1,400 on Roosevelt.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11

David J. Brewer, associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, contributes to the current number of the Independent on "Organized Wealth and the Judiciary," which will attract attention because of its obvious condemnation of Judge Alton B. Parker for leaving the position of chief judge of the New York court of appeals to accept a nomination to political office.

Justice Brewer calls attention to the fact that in a recent address delivered before the Albany law school he numbered among the sources of temptation which surround the legislator the power of corporate organizations. He asks in the present article, "Does a like temptation attend the relation of corporations to judges?"

Singularly few, says Justice Brewer, are the instances in which the direct use of money is charged or even suspected, but, he says, it must be conceded that there are good citizens who are apprehensive that the same insidious influence which corporations sometimes exercise over legislators is also exerted over judges. Electing one to judicial office, he remarks, does not change his character or increase his wisdom. Election, says Justice Brewer, is not a work of moral reformation, and it must also be remembered that a high-minded man on his election to office, even to judicial office, does not change his previously settled political convictions. It is to be expected, he adds, that if a political question is presented his prior convictions will largely influence his decision. Then Justice Brewer goes on as follows:

"There are two things which tend to minimize the possible effects of all outside influence, including therein the influence of corporate wealth and power. One is the indisposition of the American people to transfer one from judicial to political office life. It is encouraging that this disposition is growing. I firmly believe in its wisdom, and I should not regret even constitutional amendments forbidding any such transfer. I know there have been conspicuous instances in the past, and may be in the future, in which selection from judicial to political life was wise, justified by the character and fitness of the man; but as a general rule, one accepting judicial office should be impressed with the conviction that thereby his political life is ended and that the possibility of usefulness and success lies wholly in his devotion to judicial service, and the character of the work he does therein. Over the judicial door should be written in fadeless letters: 'Who enters here leaves all political hopes behind.'

"The second is the permanence of judicial life. We have in this country a wide variation in the rule of tenure, from that of two-year terms for some trial judges up to the life-tenure of federal and some state judges. Even in some states where the life-tenure is not granted the disposition has been to increase the length of the judicial term. In New York the justices of the highest courts hold for 14 years and in Pennsylvania for 21 years. The surest guarantee of the permanency of republican institutions is the stability, the long tenure of the judicial office."

The casket is in a mausoleum and the parents say the body will always be kept as it is now.

FRENCH NOBILITY AND MONEY UNITE

BRIDE-ELECT TAUGHT SCHOOL

CLAYTON, N. Y., Aug. 11.—In the little Roman Catholic church of this village, surrounded by only the immediate friends and relatives of the bride and groom, Emerence de Sallier Du Pin, daughter of Count and Countess Hermel de Sallier Du Pin of Watertown, and Thomas Hughes Kelly, a multi-millionaire of New York, will be married next Wednesday. Instead of Archbishop Farley, the pastor of the church, the Rev. Father Phileas Garand will perform the ceremony which will unite wealth and nobility.

Mlle. de Sallier is the eldest daughter of Count and Countess de Sallier Du Pin, a French nobleman who came to Watertown several years ago. She was graduated from Vassar last year. The groom-to-be is 32 years of age, and is the son of the late Eugene Kelly, a prominent New York banker. He inherited most of his father's fortune and he is rated at $17,000,000, and is high in favor at the vatican. He has given away hundreds of thousands of dollars to advance Catholicism in this country, and is one of the wealthiest Roman Catholics in the United States.

Count and Countess de Sallier and their daughter have arrived here and have taken a cottage on the shore of the St. Lawrence river, which the family will occupy for the summer.

The Kellys and the de Salliers have been friends for three generations. Mr. Kelly first met his prospective bride a number of years ago when she was a child and he was just coming into manhood. Later he met her through her brother, his chum, in New York, where she was visiting a Vassar friend.

Last month Mr. Kelly visited Watertown, where he found the young woman teaching school. He proposed and was accepted. The engagement ring is set with a beautiful ruby, which was presented to Mr. Kelly by Pope Leo XIII. It is said to be one of the finest stones of its kind in existence. It is mounted and guarded by diamonds.

THE FILIPINOS STILL NEED A GUIDING HAND

must be administered for the benefit of the people.

"And if this lesson of public responsibility," he continued, "which a man must have either as a citizen or as a public officer among people well fit for self-government is a lesson which the wealthy and the educated classes among the Filipinos have yet to learn. They are learning it by actual experience in taking part in self-government, but it requires a considerable period."

He cited intelligent public opinion as another essential to self-government, which, he said, is absent today in the Philippines. To have such a public opinion, said Secretary Taft, the people must be educated to think alike, and in a common language to express the thoughts they have on the subject of good government.

The problem before this government, he said, is how best to educate the Filipinos for self-government. The first step taken was the education of the present generation in the primary and secondary schools and in English, and he recounted the progress that has been made. Referring to the extent to which the voting franchise is granted and the rule of eligibility, Secretary Taft said:

"The fact that it is acquiesced in so generally is a confirmation of the view that 85 to 90 per cent of the people of the Philippine islands are wholly unfitted to exercise governmental political control."

McKinley Promise Fulfilled.

He added that experience had shown that many who do vote need much additional experience and education to be fitted for self-government. In establishing an assembly in accordance with the act of 1902, said the secretary, the promise of McKinley is being carried out. The entire absence of partiality by the courts toward Americans, he said, had convinced the Filipinos of the good intentions of this government.

It was a matter of conjecture how long the process of education of the people will take, but it should be continued long enough under American auspices to insure its continuance under the auspices of the Filipinos if they should see fit to establish an independent government. Continuing, he said:

"If the government were now turned over to the Filipino people without American guidance, then we can be sure that the whole fabric of the educational system established by the American government in those islands will fall to pieces. The self-sacrifice, the patience and the knowledge necessary to the continuance of such a system of education are not to be found now even among the intelligent classes of the Filipino people. They are not sufficiently charged with the importance of maintaining all these instruments I have described, for the purpose of elevating the poor and common people. They are content with a government for the few." He repeated what he had told a party of Filipinos who had expressed to him a desire for independence at once, and said:

Dangers of Ignorance.

"I pointed out to them that the security and stability of a popular self-government depended on the existence of free intelligent public opinion, and that as long as 90 per cent of their people were in hopeless ignorance and in a mere state of Christian pupilage, subject to being led about by every wealthy and educated demagogue that should raise his voice, they could not expect the coming of a firm and stable government from such a condition."

He concluded by saying it would be a matter of infinite regret to him if a policy shall be followed which will take away from the hands of the American government the power to do this people good by carrying out the plan of education outlined.

After the close of the address thousands embraced the opportunity to meet and shake hands with Secretary Taft. The Chautauqua circle of the D. A. R. gave a reception to the distinguished visitor, and he expressed himself as well pleased at being with the circle in its initial work.

Secretary Taft was shown over the grounds and commented upon the many natural beauties of Chautauqua and expressed his regret that he was unable to stay longer. He remarked that Chautauqua seemed different in many ways from the usual summer resort.

During the afternoon Secretary Taft reviewed the dress parade of the Boys' Brigade of Pittsburgh.

This evening he was the guest of the Yale men at Chautauqua at their annual banquet. The decorations consisted of the American flag, college colors and flags. Dr. George E. Vincent was toastmaster and toasts were responded to by Dr. A. R. Sharge, L. C. Hagan, Dr. James A. Babbitt, F. C. Boynton and H. A. Kelley.

Secretary Taft left at midnight for St. Louis.

laid on the table before they could be discussed. President Ward invariably recognizing a Citizen member to make this motion. A Republican with an amendment would barely get his amendment read before the presiding officer would turn his eyes in another direction to recognize a Citizen with a motion to lay the amendment on the table.

In one instance he recognized a Citizen who moved to lay an amendment on the table before the amendment had been read. It was at this point that Ward called the sergeant-at-arms to put Brand in his seat.

Ward Called Policemen.

Johns of the Fourteenth ward offered an amendment that councils, instead of the finance committee, should have charge of the sale of the bonds. Before the amendment was read by the clerk, McKelvey, Citizen, of the Tenth ward, moved that the amendment be laid on the table. Brand objected on the ground that McKelvey's motion had been made prior to the reading of the amendment. Ward ruled that McKelvey's motion should be considered.

Brand took an appeal from the decision of the chair. Bole was called to the chair and took a rising vote. During the voting Brand and other Republicans demanded a roll call. Bole ruled against a roll call, stating it had been asked for after one side had voted. Bole then left the chair in haste and Ward, who had taken it again, told Brand he was out of order. Brand took an appeal from this decision, claiming that it was not for the chair to deny any member the right of an appeal.

Ward told Brand to take his seat and the latter refused and continued to speak, declaring that President Ward had "violated parliamentary law and had broken the oath he had taken to preside impartially."

Ward again ordered Brand to take his seat, declaring that he would not entertain his appeal and that it was not a proper one.

"The sergeant-at-arms will take the member to his seat," said Ward.

Two policemen, acting as sergeants-at-arms, were at the door, but they did not obey. One officer suddenly disappeared when the president called. Things looked squally, and Roger O'Mara, who was in the corridor, came into the room and stood near the president's desk.

All Amendments Smothered.

President Ward declared that McKelvey's motion to lay the Johns amendment on the table had been carried by a vote of 26 to 16. When matters quieted down Brand took his seat. He rose again and began to speak and Ward stopped him, stating that the amendment had been disposed of. Brand said he was not speaking on the amendment, but on the ordinance. Ward then told him to proceed.

The next amendment introduced was one by Semmelrock to reduce the rate of interest on the bonds from 4 to 3½ per cent. Rapp promptly moved to lay the amendment on the table. Every time the Republicans demanded a roll call on Rapp's motion the vote was as follows, showing the line-up of council:

Ayes—Bole, Bonini, Cronmiller, Dengler, Finerty, Frankel, Gulland, Hammer, Helmold, Hogue, Hughes, Joyce, Kalenthaler, Mathews, Myers, McKelvey, McNally, O'Brien, Pfannkuck, Porter, Rapp, Roenigk, Scott, Sheehan, Simon, Taylor, Wallace, Walls, Zeuger, Ward—30.

Noes—Bailey, Barton, Bergmann, Brand, Fullerton, Gibbon, Girdwood, Johns, Kohne, Martin, Milby, Morin, McKnight, Semmelrock—14.

Martin moved to reduce the interest to 3½ per cent. This amendment met the fate of the previous ones and was laid on the table on motion of Hogue.

Brand offered an amendment to postpone the issue of bonds until January 2, 1907, and insert this date in lieu of October 1, 1906. This was laid on the table. Morin moved to issue the bonds on October 1, 1906, which was laid on the table. Bailey moved to issue the bonds on October 1, 1905, and this was also tabled. Brand moved to amend by issuing the bonds in sum not $1,000,000 every year for five years, beginning January 2, 1905. This was tabled.

Citizens Remained Silent.

Finding it useless to propose any amendment, Johns, Brand, Bailey and others spoke on the ordinance as a whole, to which the Citizens made no reply, except Bole, Brand, Bailey and Hogue, remarkable for an administration member, that no work could be done on the filtration plant until all the bonds had been sold and the money in the treasury. He said the authorities had no right to spend any money for filtration until the $2,000,000 bonds had been sold. He said the controller was taking this position and the controller was responsible personally for any money paid out for filtration before the $3,000,000 was in the treasury.

Brand's speech caused more excitement. He declared he was opposed to the finance committee selling the bonds because the committee and the chairman of the committee had been appointed by the parties back of the bond scheme.

"I know this because the president of this body told me that he did not appoint the chairman or the members of the committee," snapped Brand with a defiant look at Ward. Ward rapped Brand to order and said:

"I wish to say positively and emphatically that I never talked to Mr. Brand about this matter."

Brand and Ward Raised Ire.

"And I wish to say," retorted Brand, "that you did tell me that you did not appoint the committees. You made this statement right in front of the City hall, and I have three witnesses to prove it. You threw up your hands and said: 'You know who appointed them.'"

Ward made no further reply and the incident passed. After a few more speeches on the ordinance it was passed on second reading, and council adjourned.

Director Bigelow talked over the long-distance telephone yesterday to Solicitor Rodgers about Controller Larkin's hold-up of the filtration payroll. Bigelow said that he expected Rodgers, who is at Spring Lake, N. J., home in a couple of days. Bigelow is considering the plan of passing a special appropriation bill in councils to pay the salaries of the filtration bureau, and if Rodgers approves this plan it will be followed, instead of making a contest in court.

WHITE WOMAN PAINTED HER FACE TO MARRY A NEGRO

First Minister Refused to Perform the Ceremony, and the Second Was Deceived by the Artificial Coloring.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CLYDE, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Citizens of Clyde are indignant over the developments of the marriage last night of a negro and a white woman, who painted her face to deceive the minister. Dexter Taylor, the negro, first called upon the Rev. J. J. Edwards, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, accompanied by a white woman, Mrs. Useba Morton, and requested the clergyman to unite them in marriage. Edwards was horrified at the request and refused to officiate.

Taylor called on the Rev. Frank Hines, pastor of the Baptist church of Rose, accompanied by what appeared to be a colored woman. In response to Taylor's request to be united in marriage to his companion, Mr. Hines readily assented and the two were soon made one. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor immediately leased a cottage and are spending their honeymoon there.

The Rev. Mr. Hines states since he performed the brief ceremony he has learned that when Mrs. Morton arranged her toilet for the marriage she colored her flesh which so closely resembled the ebony tint of colored people that with the addition of a veil which she wore on the occasion, she would readily pass for a colored woman, and the clergyman says he had not the least suspicion of any deception in the matter. There is talk of tar and feathers for the bride and groom.

ADMIRAL TOGO SMASHES THE RUSSIAN FLEET

It is rumored late tonight that the admiralty has received information that the squadron has passed beyond the Shan-Tung promontory, which would bring the squadron at least 150 miles to the southeast of Port Arthur and into the Yellow sea.

The family of Lieut. Smirnoff, an officer of the battleship Czarevitch, this evening received a telegram from him dated at Tsin-Chau today. The message contained only two words: "Alive, embraces."

Tsin-Chau is 100 miles southwest of Chefoo, in the province of Shan-Tung, and is at the entrance of Kiau-Chau bay. The receipt of this telegram might be construed as partial confirmation of the rumor that the squadron had reached the open sea beyond Shan-Tung.

It is hardly believed that the squadron itself put into Kiau-Chau, although some time ago it was reported that it might take refuge in this port. It is regarded as more likely that one of the torpedo boat destroyers was sent there with official dispatches, and filed Lieut. Smirnoff's telegram.

The news of the dismantling of the torpedo boat Reshitelni at Chefoo has not caused surprise. It is understood that it was deliberately sacrificed so that Vice Admiral Skrydloff might be apprised of the departure of the Russian vessels from Port Arthur in order that he might start out with the Vladivostok squadron for the purpose of meeting them.

It is denied at the admiralty that the squadron left Port Arthur because the situation of the fortress was desperate. The admiralty authorities say it is more than likely that with the Japanese close up to the perimeter of the fortress the warships were unable to render further effective aid, and that their safety was endangered by the plunging shells dropping from the Wolf hills.

AWAITS THE SQUADRON.

Vladivostok Makes Ready to Receive the Fleet That Sailed from Port Arthur.

VLADIVOSTOK, Aug. 11.—Preparations are being completed here for the reception and protection of the Port Arthur squadron. The departure of the squadron from Port Arthur is generally interpreted to indicate that the siege of the fortress is entering on its final stage. The smaller ships probably were left behind on account of their slow speed and inadequate fighting power, while the torpedo boat destroyers would constitute a constant menace to the Japanese fleet outside.

Advices from Admiral Avellan indicate the coming squadron will consist of the battleships Retvizan, Pabieda, Peresviet, Sevastopol, Czarevitch and Poltava, the armored cruiser Bayan and the protected cruisers Pallada, Diana and Askold.

KASAGI IS LOST.

Report That Japanese Cruiser Was Sunk in Recent Naval Engagement. Was Built Here.

CHEFOO, Aug. 11.—It is reported that the Japanese protected cruiser Kasagi was sunk off Round Island in the recent engagement, 48 miles east of Port Arthur.

The Kasagi was built at Philadelphia in 1898 and is a protected cruiser of 4,784 tons. She carries two 8-inch and ten 4.7-inch rapid fire guns. She carries a crew of 400 men. The Kasagi is the second American-built boat to be destroyed in the war. The Variag, built by the Cramps, was sunk in Chemulpo harbor by Japanese fire. The Essex was also christened in the usual way by breaking a bottle of wine on her prow, but was simply named by Miss Helen Long, daughter of the then secretary of the navy. A pigeon was released and a shower of flowers fell over her bow.

German Shippers Are Scared.

FORMER ARMY OFFICER KILLS HIMSELF IN 'FRISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—Eugene N. V. Bissell, a former captain in the United States army, committed suicide in his room in the Grand hotel by inhaling illuminating gas. It is supposed the suicide was caused by continued brooding over the death of his wife, two months ago. Capt. Bissell fought in the Philippines and in the Boxer war in China. He was made a brevet major for distinguished gallantry. His age was about 35.

COWBOY PREACHER IS ORDERED TO VAMOOSE

CRIPPLE CREEK, COL., Aug. 11.—The Rev. Thomas S. Leland, pastor of the Victor Methodist Episcopal church, who was warned last night by masked men to leave the Cripple Creek district, declared today that he intended to remain and would resist any mob that attacked him. Mr. Leland is known throughout the west as the "cowboy preacher."

RUSSIA'S EYES ARE ON GEN. KUROPATKIN

horses sinking up to their knees in the mud.

A refugee from Port Arthur who has just arrived at Liao-Yang says the defenders of the fortress remain all day at their posts in spite of the dreadful heat, the women heroically carrying water to the parched soldiers, although not a single space within the perimeter of the fortress is free from bullets and bursting shells. Sometimes the whole fortress seemed enveloped in smoke from the countless shells exploding.

There was a memorable sight from the Wolf hills when the Japanese attacked the Russian positions there July 25. Five Japanese divisions moved across the plain to the assault, under cover of their guns. The onset was so desperate that it almost verged on frenzy. It was said at Port Arthur that Field Marshal Oyama commanded the Japanese forces in person, and several princes of the blood and veteran generals led on the attacking forces, giving examples of courage and resource.

After the battle Gen. Stoessel ordered out every available surgeon to dress the Japanese wounded, the Russians were unable to bring them into the fortress, where the problem of feeding the noncombatants is too serious. Consequently the Japanese wounded were left on the field of battle to be taken off by their own people.

AN-SHAN-SHAN, HALF WAY BETWEEN HAI-CHENG AND LIAO-YANG, Aug. 11.—A reconnaissance in force August 7 proved that the Japanese are making a wide detour of the flag valley toward Mukden. The Thirty-fifth regiment of sharpshooters, with two guns, participated in the reconnaissance, which was directed against the west flank of the Japanese position near An-Shan-Shan. The movement revealed the presence of only one Japanese brigade, with ten guns, lately landed at the port of Niuchwang. The brigade is formed of raw recruits, almost boys.

The whole Japanese force south of An-Shan-Shan is not more than a division, with a brigade of artillery. That a remainder of Gen. Oku's army is evidently participating in the flanking operations.

GEN. KUROKI'S HEADQUARTERS IN THE FIELD, VIA FUSAN, KOREA, August 11.—The Russians recently have been strengthening their defences around Lia-Yang. The difficulties of newspaper correspondents in getting out telegraphic messages are increasing. A messenger sent by the correspondents of the Associated Press, bearing a dispatch regarding the recent battle, was waylaid by Chinese on August 6, near Antung, and robbed of the dispatch and his money. Messengers now fear to travel on account of the danger of meeting with violence.

REVOLUTIONS IN SOUTH AMERICA ARE ACTIVE

Paraguayans Preparing for Struggle and Uruguay Government Sustains Defeat.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

BUENOS AYRES, Aug. 11.—The revolutionary movement at Asunsian, the capital of Paraguay, was initiated by a member of the chamber of deputies with the object of overthrowing the administration of President Escurra. There have been no disturbances whatever in the country districts. The government forces are concentrating at the capital and requisitions have been made for arms.

The steamer Sajonia, which sailed from La Plata August 4, is of 215 tons and is equipped with six Krupp guns. She is ascending the Uruguay river with the object of making an attack and it is expected that there will be a naval engagement between the Sajonia and an armed passenger river boat manned by national troops.

Foreigners are taking refuge in the legations of their respective countries. Many Paraguayans are crossing into Argentine territory. There is evident purpose of awaiting the receipt of arms. The revolutionary movement appears to be popular, though Gens. Caballero and Escobar have issued a manifesto denouncing it. The telegraph wires have been cut and communication therefore is difficult.

The revolution in Uruguay has increased in activity and today heavy fighting is reported in which it is said that the revolutionists inflicted a serious defeat on the forces of the government.

OFFICER SHOT HIMSELF.

Turnkey Owen M. Lewis Tried to Commit Suicide at His Home on Account of Ill-Health.

Owen Maurice Lewis, night turnkey at central station yesterday attempted to commit suicide at his home at No. 2710 Jane street, South Side, by shooting himself in the breast with a revolver. The bullet lodged in the region of his heart and he is lying at the South Side hospital in a precarious condition. Lewis has been in ill health for several months. He had stomach complaint and in spite of all treatment he grew worse.

At noon yesterday Lewis walked about the house and talked to his wife. He said he was feeling better. Mrs. Lewis went into the yard and heard a revolver shot in the dining room. She found her husband lying on the lounge with a revolver in his hand. Lewis was still conscious and told his wife he was tired of continual suffering and wanted to die. A patrol wagon was summoned and he was removed to the hospital. While on the way to the hospital he turned to his fellow officers and said:

"If that shot don't end me, the next one will."

Lewis has been connected with the police bureau for 15 years. He is 45 years old and until the last two years possessed a fine physique. A number of years ago he was considered one of the best swimmers in the country.

EPIDEMIC OF SMALLPOX BREAKS OUT IN ZION CITY

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—An epidemic of smallpox has broken out in Zion City, the home of John Alexander Dowie, the so-called "divine healer." At least, there are said to be persons ill with the disease. Dowie and his elders daily offer up prayers for their recovery. As there are no physicians in Zion City, and Dowie will not permit his followers to use drugs in any form, fears are entertained that the disease may spread to surrounding towns.

NATIONS PROTEST AGAINST RULINGS

NO MODIFICATIONS LIKELY

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 11.—(10:30 p. m.)—The Associated Press hears from a high source that at the foreign office here the question of revising the list of contraband is not under consideration, and that there is little likelihood of any modifications being made in the Russian declaration at present.

While it is admitted that Russia has officially communicated to Germany, through the German ambassador here, the ruling of the prize court at Vladivostok in the case of the steamer Thea, sunk by the Russian squadron, it is not known yet whether Germany will be satisfied. It is pointed out that the Japanese charterers are responsible to the German owners for the ship, the only question being whether the German government shall consider the sinking of the steamer to be an indignity to the German flag.

A commission composed of high officials has been appointed to examine the position of the volunteer fleet from the standpoint of international law. The commission includes Prof. De Martens, professor of international law at the University of St. Petersburg, who has likewise been delegated to sit in the admiralty council, which will hear appeals against the capture of neutral merchantmen.

BERLIN, Aug. 11.—Russia has notified the German government officially of the decision of the Vladivostok prize court that the German owned steamer Thea is a lawful prize because she was chartered by the Hakoi Sannino Gossi Kola Company and was plying between Japanese ports, which deprived the vessel of her neutral character. Her owner, Herr Diedrichsen of Kiel, will lodge an appeal against the decision with the Russian admiralty. The German government will give general support to this appeal.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Great Britain is distinctly dissatisfied with Russia's attitude in the case of the British steamer Knight Commander, sunk by the Vladivostok squadron, and continues to press the Russian government to make substantial modifications of the list of articles regarded as contraband. Count Benckendorff, the Russian ambassador to Great Britain, called at the foreign office yesterday and conferred for an hour with Premier Balfour and Secretary Lansdowne, the latter bringing up the question of the changes which should be made in the Russian regulations in order to make them acceptable to the commercial nations, besides pointing out the inadvisability of including food, fuel and clothing contraband under all circumstances. Lord Lansdowne dwelt on the sweeping character of Russia's proclamation, some of the provisions of which, after specifying various goods as contraband, closed with the word "etcetera," which Lord Lansdowne pointed out can include anything and everything the Russian authorities desire. As this is a serious restriction on neutral shipping, Lord Lansdowne insisted that the regulations should not contain generalities of that kind. In reply Lord Lansdowne was assured that Russia had no desire to unnecessarily hamper neutral shipping.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Ambassador McCormick today cabled the state department the first official report it has had of the results of the work of the prize court at Vladivostok in the case of the steamer Arabia. The statement, in substance, is as follows:

"That the seizure of the Arabia was regular and justifiable, that a portion of the cargo, consisting of railway material and flour, weighing about 2,500,000 pounds, destined to various commercial houses in Japan, constituted contraband of war; that the rest of the cargo, consisting of flour and various objects, weighing about 3,500,000 pounds, destined for neutral ports, was not contraband of war; that inasmuch as less than one-half of her cargo was contraband, the ship herself was not liable to confiscation, and the Arabia, with the rest of the cargo not liable to confiscation, has been ordered released."

With this official statement as a basis, Secretary Hay has now taken the case in hand with a view to making a test that shall be final of the right of a belligerent to seize foodstuffs not directly consigned to the forces of another belligerent. The state department firmly insists that such goods are not contraband, and will endeavor to press this view on the Russian government, which, if it accepts our contention, will release the seized goods or pay for them.

CELEBRATED ITS DEMISE.

Banquet Signalizes Abolition of Westinghouse Detailing Engineering Corps.

The last annual banquet of the retail engineers' department of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company was eaten last night in a private dining room of the Hotel Seneley. The detail and other engineering departments are about to be abolished, or rather to be merged in one engineering department, and that is why a somewhat more elaborate menu and program were features of last night's banquet.

B. P. Lowe was the toastmaster and H. N. Bartlett and H. P. Davis made speeches. Twenty-seven men were present.

Philatelists Elect Officers.

The nineteenth annual convention of the American philatelic association, the postage stamp collectors, adjourned yesterday. The following officers were elected: H. E. Deats, president, Flemington, N. J.; Frank H. Burt, first vice president, Boston; D. T. Eaton, secretary, Muscatine, Ia.; C. L. Annan, treasurer, St. Paul, and Eugene Dueblin, international secretary, Pittsburgh.

GRAFT CHARGES NOT YET PROBED

Scrandrett Gives a Plain Talk Concerning Conditions Existing in Allegheny.

WITNESSES MAY BE ARRESTED

No time has been set yet for a hearing by the police board of the charges of graft and corruption in Allegheny made by Policeman Amos Dachroth, but Director Scandrett gave assurance yesterday that the affair is to be thoroughly sifted. No matter who the offender may be, Scandrett declares, no mercy will be shown in meting out deserved punishment. He spent yesterday investigating certain charges of Policeman Dachroth.

"There are some people who think I am trying to dodge this thing," said Scandrett, "but they will discover that I am in this thing to the finish and that I am going to leave no doubt in the public mind as to the real status of affairs. Dachroth names a number of women in his letter to Mayor Wyman, and these will be called upon to testify before the police board. If they refuse to answer the summons, they will be arrested and forcibly taken before the board. Dachroth will be invited to bring every witness he can find, and if any wrong-doing can be proved the guilty ones, whether it be Capt. Wilson or any one else, will suffer the penalty prescribed by the laws of the state. I don't believe Capt. Wilson is guilty of the charges made against him, but if he is he has acted very foolishly. Neither his position nor friends will stay the prosecution of an investigation.

"There is a certain amount of politics behind this affair. This talk about any liquor dealer having a monopoly of the trade in disorderly houses is absurd. There are two liquor dealers in the Fourth ward who would like to have the exclusive trade in the lower ground, and there is another whose place is on the South Side who supplies more houses in Allegheny than any other one dealer. He succeeds in this by underselling the Allegheny bottlers. One of the Fourth ward men I have in mind is in the retail liquor business, and I cannot understand how he can legally do business on a wholesale scale. There were some dirty tricks played in the last license court by dealers in the Fourth ward in their attempts to injure other dealers, and in several instances the contemptible games succeeded.

"But the fight among the liquor dealers is none of my business and I have no interest in it except that I hate to see one man's business ruined, as I am afraid by others seeking his downfall. My interest will be confined entirely to making an investigation in my own department."

It would appear from hearsay in the Third and Fourth wards that there was an element of truth in the statements made by Dachroth, as no difficulty is experienced in securing the names and addresses of women who, it is asserted, have at various times given monetary return for police protection

DEATH CLAIMS GEO. A. CHALFANT

OLD ETNA NEIGHBORS MOURN

George A. Chalfant, former president of the Spang-Chalfant company of Etna, died yesterday afternoon in the Harper hospital, Detroit, from injuries received in falling from a third-story window of a hotel while walking in his sleep. The accident occurred last Friday night at the Star Island hotel, St. Clair Flats, near Detroit, and it was thought that Mr. Chalfant would recover. A lesion of the heart was directly responsible for his death. The remains will be brought to the Chalfant residence in Etna this morning.

The news of Mr. Chalfant's sudden end came as a personal shock to his old friends and neighbors in Etna last night. For more than 40 years he had been a familiar figure in the town, being personally acquainted with all the older residents of the place. His long association in the iron and steel business and in the county Republican political organization had made him one of the leading men of affairs in the city. He was the pioneer in the use of natural gas as fuel for manufacturing purposes.

Classmate of Dr. Paxton.

Mr. Chalfant was a son of Henry Chalfant and was born on a farm near Turtle creek on March 3, 1841. He attended Jefferson college, Canonsburg, and was a classmate of the Rev. Dr. John R. Paxton of New York. He was graduated in 1861. At this time his elder brother, John W. Chalfant, was a prominent member of the firm of Spang, Chalfant & Co., and the young man from college was taken into the general offices as bookkeeper. He held several positions in the line of rapid promotion, and soon became general superintendent of the mills.

GEORGE A. CHALFANT.

"Three hundred men were employed by the concern when Mr. Chalfant took charge, but his aggressive policy soon manifested itself, and within a few years the payroll exceeded 1,000. He adopted many improvements and extended the business in all its branches. He had a practical knowledge of the operation of every department in the plant, and urged every progressive measure that presented itself. In 1890 he became president and general manager of the company, and held this position until two years ago, when he sold out his interest to Henry W. Chalfant, his nephew, and retired.

Founded Many Years Ago.

For a number of years he was general manager of the Spang Steel and Iron Company of Etna. The Spang-Chalfant mills were built in 1828. Charles F. Spang, who died in Nice, France, two weeks ago, aged 85 years, having been one of the original founders of the firm.

Mr. Chalfant was a manufacturer of the old school. He was an indefatigable worker. It was his custom to rise at 5 o'clock in the morning and make a round of inspection through the mills before breakfasting. His hours at his desk were long, and it was no uncommon sight for his workmen to see him in the mills at midnight when some particularly important piece of work was being done.

Labor troubles seldom occurred, but when dissatisfaction arose he was always willing to receive his employes in co-operation for a settlement. He believed that no man was too old to work. Some of his best workmen celebrated their fortieth year in his mills. There was no age limit or retiring rule, and old workmen were encouraged to remain and do tasks which fitted them best.

Noted for Unostentatious Charity.

Mr. Chalfant was noted for his charity, but his giving was never attended by ostentation. He provided for scores of families in Etna when grief or distress visited their homes. When a man was discharged he rarely failed of reinstatement and another trial if he called upon the general manager and explained his trouble.

In 1875 he first introduced natural gas for manufacturing purposes, piping the fuel from Butler county to the boilers and puddling furnaces in the Etna mills. It was nearly 30 years before other big concerns followed suit.

Mr. Chalfant for the last 30 years had been a member of the local school board. He was a member of St. John's lodge, F. & A. M., and president of the Farmers and Mechanics bank of Sharpsburg. He attended the Sharpsburg Presbyterian church. He married Miss Margaret Bell of this city, who survives him with one son, Charles C. Chalfant, three daughters, Miss Margaret Chalfant, Mrs. Harry S. Calvert and Mrs. Wilber Shenk; a brother A. M. Chalfant, and a sister, Miss Sidney Chalfant, made their homes with him in the old Spang mansion in Etna.

Mr. Chalfant went to the Michigan resort on July 31 with Senator John W. Crawford and George L. McFarlane on a fishing trip. They had expected to return home today.

Postal Clerks Will Meet.

A special meeting of the Pittsburgh Postoffice Clerks' association will be held in the slip room of the postoffice tonight to rescind the action which gives $100 to the four delegates to the convention of the national association in St. Louis to entertain the national president of the association.

M'ILVAIN DEFIES ACT OF COUNCILS

WYMAN REFUSES TO SIGN

Director McIlvain's disregard of the provisions of an ordinance passed at the July meeting of Allegheny councils authorizing him to lay water mains under 34 streets in the city, and to engage resident labor on the contract, promises to develop a condition of affairs on the North Side that may result in a test of the scope of the charter ordinance relative to city contracts.

A measure was introduced by John R. Henricks, of the Eleventh ward, annulling an ordinance, previously passed authorizing the mayor and Director McIlvain to advertise for bids for the laying of about $40,000 worth of sewer mains, principally in the Tenth, Eleventh and Fifteenth wards. A section of the ordinance provides that preference in labor be given to citizens of Allegheny City. The entire bill, Director McIlvain says, is drawn in direct violation of the provisions of the city charter ordinance governing the letting of contracts. The giving of preference in labor to residents of the city is not only a discrimination against certain classes, according to McIlvain, but is nothing but a hindrance to him in carrying on the work to the best interests of the city.

The measure was bitterly fought in both branches of councils and failed to pass in the select branch on its first presentation. Henricks, however, managed to have it reintroduced on a technicality, charging irregularity at the first meeting, and its final passage followed. Mayor Wyman opposed it, and since its passage has refused to sign it. As it was passed on July 11, it has become a law without the signature of the mayor.

The contention of Director McIlvain is that it will be impossible to find 200 resident citizens of Allegheny fitted to dig in ditches, and this is the character of the work demanded in such operations as laying water mains. In presenting the bill, Henricks declared that in view of the great number of citizens who had been out of work for months because of shut-downs in mills and factories, it was a duty councils owed to these people to give them work when possible. This view is not discredited by Director McIlvain, but unless the city is to be a loser by several thousand dollars the scheme, he declares, will be impracticable.

"I have been a contractor all my life," said Director McIlvain yesterday, "and I know more, perhaps, about laboring men than most of the members of councils. If I adhere to the provisions of that ordinance I shall be compelled to engage men who never worked in ditches in their lives, and this alone would cause the work to drag along for months longer than is necessary. The best men for such work are Italians and Swedes, and anyone who thinks that a man who has worked in a mill or a factory can dig for eight or 10 hours a day during the summer months in a trench in the streets is mistaken.

"Men who have been accustomed to the heat of mills cannot endure the intense heat of the sun during these months. Men who can work constantly with pick and shovel on such jobs as laying water mains must become inured to this class of work, just as an artisan must learn his trade. Should I start this big contract with a gang of inexperienced men, the result would be numerous cases of heat prostration, shirking, and a general state of affairs that would delay the work for months and increase the cost by thousands.

"The city charter ordinance provides that all such work, in fact, any work that involves the expenditure of more than $250, shall be advertised, and the contract let to the lowest bidder. That seems clear enough, and yet that ordinance puts the responsibility of the work in my hands, adds to my cares, and restricts me in my choice of the class of labor that can best do the work. The whole thing is illegal, and I am going along with that work as I think best for the interests of the city. If anyone takes exception, I shall make a test case of it and have it decided, once for all, what are the powers of councils and the scope of the charter ordinance."

TRIED TO TAKE POISON.

Harry Hainsworth Makes Two Attempts to Commit Suicide—Expects to Be Successful Some Time.

Harry Hainsworth, aged 26, of 2709 Wylie avenue, made two attempts to poison himself last night. He was prevented each time and was arrested by Special Officers Morgan and Callen and lodged in the Central police station for disorderly conduct. Hainsworth is a salesman and had been drinking. He was seen by Policeman Albert Hesser to enter a drug store at Second avenue and Grant street and buy some laudanum, and the officer took the poison from him.

About 7 o'clock he entered the saloon of James H. Filson, at 209 Grant street. He unwrapped another small bottle of laudanum, and turning to the men in the place, said:

"Good-by, boys; I am going to end it."

Clifford Johnston, a former clerk in the court house, knocked the poison from his hands. Officers Callan and Morgan were summoned and he was taken to the station house. As he was placed in the cell he said to the officers:

"You were too fast for me this time, but I will kill myself yet."

Friday, August 12, 1904.

The Gazette desires to call the attention of those of its readers who contemplate summer trips to the announcements of the many summer resort hotels published on page 12 of this issue.

Judge Parker's speech of acceptance has brought the New York Sun down from the fence. It doesn't like Roosevelt, but it can't stand a candidate who describes as "admirable," that "miserable hell-broth of dishwater and dynamite concocted at St. Louis." It therefore announces that it will advocate the election of Roosevelt and Fairbanks.

According to reports from Esopus, Judge Parker is desirous of taking the stump. His reasons are that his speech of acceptance was so well received and drew so much applause from his auditors, that he is impressed with the idea that he is a genuine orator. After reading the speech, we are compelled to take issue with the judge. There is not even the essence of oratory displayed. The fact that he drew cheers from a partisan crowd is no evidence in his favor. It will be a different matter when he stands before an audience in which there are many dissenters from his opinions, and he will then find it a very difficult matter to hold their attention and interest with the glittering generalities and cant with which he fed his party on Wednesday.

After a stormy debate the filtration bond ordinance passed common council on second reading. Republican members made a good record by offering an amendment fixing the rate of interest at 3½ per cent, at which rate the city can market the bonds at par, but this was voted down. There is a manifest intention that the bond issue shall benefit other interests than public interests. The ill-advised amendment to postpone the beginning of interest upon the bonds to January 2, 1907, was also voted down. If the work is pushed as it ought to be, and if Controller Larkin's obstructionist policy does not prove too great a drag, part of the five-million loan will be needed before 1907. The proper way to have met the case would have been to have provided for the issue and sale of the bonds as actually needed.

If the Allegheny police officials wish to have the good opinion of the people of the city they will not attempt to dodge the charges of graft made against them. The charges, as they now stand, are very plain and to the point. We have no opinion to express as to their truth or falsity. We simply say that they cannot be ignored, and honest officials would not care to ignore them. A thorough investigation will not injure the reputation of any innocent member of the force, but the whitewashing process will tend to convict all, at least in the minds of the citizens. The officer who makes the charges is very plain in his statements. He may be instigated by a personal grievance, as alleged, but that takes nothing from the seriousness of the situation if he can prove what he says, or can put the proper officials in the way of securing such proof. The affair has gone too far to be ignored.

Information comes from St. Petersburg that the Russian foreign office has no intention of revising its list of articles declared to be contraband of war. One newspaper, the Novosti, advises that the American and British ruling on this subject be accepted by Russia, but the foreign officials decline even to discuss the matter, and assert their intention to stand by their previous declaration. This may have the effect of getting Russia into serious difficulties should there be further seizures of neutral ships. Neither the United States nor Great Britain will accept the contraband declaration of Russia, nor is Germany likely to do so. The action of the prize court at Vladivostok in holding the German steamer Thea to be a legal prize and justifying the sinking of the vessel will bring Emperor William more closely into the controversy. It is most likely that cases up to the present can be settled before The Hague tribunal, but it is a question whether Great Britain and Germany will stand idly by should there be further interference with their shipping. Russian officials are adding to their list of international blunders by their persistence on the question of contraband.

According to an official statement the war in Manchuria has cost Japan $100,000,000 up to the end of July. And this is only a small part of the great burden the Japanese will have to bear as a result of the war, even if they come out victorious. In the end Japan will find herself with a badly crippled navy which will have to be rebuilt if she desires to continue to be known as a world power, and she will also be compelled to keep large garrisons in the war territory for many months after the struggle is ended, even though she honestly intends to give China full sovereignty in the end. Then it will be a long struggle to restore her business, which is now practically paralyzed by the absence of so many men on the fighting line. Altogether, the expense of war under modern conditions is so heavy that it must have a strong influence in keeping peace.

The attacks of Manchurian bandits upon a Russian position can hardly cause the entrance of China into the war as an ally of Japan. Russia cannot expect the Chinese government to control its citizens in Manchuria, since the Russians have for years excluded China from participating in the government of that province. If any one is at fault in allowing the bandits too much opportunity for activity at this time it is Russia. The want of a strong and efficient government in Manchuria in the recent past has allowed the raids of these bandits to become very profitable, and they now see a way to secure a certain standing with the victorious Japanese by harassing the retreating Russians when an opportunity presents itself. The Japanese doubtless do not want their aid, but there is no way to stop them, since they are not within the Japanese lines. Russia is simply reaping where she has sown.

The Crops and the Election.

The government crop report as of August 1, which was published yesterday, becomes interesting when examined as to its possible bearing upon the election in November. Everybody will admit that material conditions have an important effect in influencing the vote of the average man in presidential years. There can be no doubt that a succession of bad crops and the pressing burden of farm mortgages produced a state of mind favorable for the cultivation of economic heresies in the west during the first Bryan campaign, and the industrial and commercial depression which followed bad times in the agricultural districts were favorable to the second Bryan campaign. When a man is fairly prosperous he is content to let well enough alone; when he is not prosperous he is open to argument for a change, or risks a change without argument.

The government figures yesterday suggest that there may be something in "Roosevelt luck." Agricultural conditions in the states which the Democrats are claiming as doubtful, or at all events worth an extra effort, are ideal so far as the great money crop, corn, is concerned. Illinois leads all other states as a producer of corn, the yield last year amounting to 264,000,000 bushels. The condition of this year's crop is 5 per cent higher than last year and 3 per cent above the 10-year average, so the prospect is that the present crop will be the largest ever grown.

Chairman Taggart was chosen as the head of the Democratic national committee because of his supposed ability to carry Indiana, but the sun and rain were at work before him, and as a result the condition of the corn crop of that state is 16 per cent higher than last year, and 2 per cent above the 10-year average. Last year Indiana raised 142,000,000 bushels, a poor crop; this year the yield promises to exceed all previous totals. Nebraska reports a condition 13 per cent better than last year and 10 per cent better than the 10-year average, and Wisconsin, where the Democrats claim a fighting chance, has a corn crop condition 11 per cent higher than a year ago.

Iowa ranks second in the list of states as a corn producer. Its yield last year was a hundred million bushels short of the crop for 1902, a fact which may have had something to do with cultivating the "Iowa idea." This year, however, corn crop conditions are 5 per cent better than last year and 4 per cent higher than the 10-year average. Missouri is a great corn state and stands in the Democratic column. Curiously enough the condition of the crop in that state is 10 per cent below the 10-year average.

It is not often that any serious damage occurs to the crop after the 10th of August, and there is every promise, therefore, that before election day the greatest corn crop in the history of the country will be safely harvested. With the granaries of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Nebraska and Wisconsin bursting with their golden treasure, the voters of those states will be more disposed to support a Republican record and less disposed to be lured away by a Democratic prospectus.

Armenia's Plea for Help.

The members of the Armenian committee now on a tour of the European capitals are very modest in their requests. After citing the terrible condition of their people under Turkish rule, they simply ask the guarantee of peace. They do not want to escape the rule of the sultan, merely that the powers bring some influence to bear upon the porte to cause a cessation of murder and robbery at the hands of Turkish soldiers and Kurds. There seems to be no other way open for the amelioration of the unhappy conditions under which the Armenians are living but for the powers to take up the question and give the Turkish officials to understand that they must give the people the protection that is the duty of all governments. The situation is a disgrace to Europe, and as the sultan is a special protege of the various powers it is their special duty to take action. The Armenian committee is coming to Washington after visiting London, Rome, Vienna and Berlin, but it does not appear that this is our affair. We are kept reasonably busy keeping things straight on our own side of the world. We are ready to give the Armenians our sympathy and moral support, but any action taken must come from the powers who are parties to the treaties by which the Turkish empire has been safeguarded.

The Beginning of the End.

The efforts of the Russian fleet to escape from Port Arthur indicate that the Japanese investment of the fortress is now so close that there is no longer safe anchorage in the harbor. Since the Japanese captured Wolfs hill they hold a position which has the fortress and the harbor in range. They are mounting heavy guns whose fire will eventually breach even massive fortifications, and against which ships in narrow quarters where they are unable to maneuver are almost helpless. From this deadly position the only hope of relief is in running the gauntlet of the blockading fleet and getting out to sea, and the Russian squadron appears to have made the attempt. The exact results are yet to become known, but it is rumored that severe fighting took place and some of the Russian vessels were driven back in a damaged condition. One Russian torpedo destroyer has made its way to Chefoo, a neutral port, which it will have to leave or else be dismantled.

The affair shows that Port Arthur is no longer available as a Russian naval base. The fortress may hold out for some time longer, but the capture of Wolfs hill appears to be the beginning of the end. It is not necessary for the Japanese to breach all the defenses to make the position untenable. It will be sufficient to be able to concentrate fire upon an arc of the inner defenses. The success of the Japanese in penetrating the rings of outer fortification is an assurance of their final triumph if their supply of troops and ammunition hold out, and there have been no signs of any deficiency in either respect. At all times the Japanese general staff seems to have been able to put men and ordnance at any desired point in as large quantities as could be made available. In the tactical developments of the campaign Japanese efficiency has not been so marked. The frequent delays in their advance upon the lines of the Russian army may have been unavoidable, but they have given General Kuropatkin opportunities of which he has availed himself with marked ability. His success in avoiding a general engagement and in keeping open his line of retreat evinces a high order of military capacity. His position is still critical, but his chances for extricating his army from the Japanese net appear to have improved, and under the circumstances this will be a great achievement.

Secretary Taft Talks.

The address of Secretary Taft at Chautauqua on "Our Duty in the Philippines," comes opportunely, as a rejoinder to the plea for abandonment made in Judge Parker's acceptance speech. Secretary Taft pointed out the necessity of educating the Filipinos in self-government before imposing its responsibilities upon them. The truth is that instead of going too slow in this matter we have, perhaps, been going too fast. The Filipinos are being inducted into the franchise faster than we got it ourselves, for at the time of the revolution only a small percentage of the people had the right to vote. We had some two centuries of colonial experience before we became strong enough to sustain political independence, and it would be the wildest folly to think that the Filipinos are less in need of political education than we were ourselves. The "aunties" would subject them to a strain that no race could endure without previous discipline, and in their case it would be followed by a state of horrible disorder. No greater sin against civilization and the rights of man could be committed than that which they propose. They are like the Jacobins of the French revolution who delivered San Domingo over to anarchy and massacre, resisting all appeal to common sense with the cry "perish the colonies rather than a principle."

The Chicago saloonkeeper who announced that he would vote the Prohibition ticket has started a business boom for his place, which he probably considers worth all it cost. He will still be able to keep open after the election.

It's a good wager that far away Manila will have filtered water before Pittsburgh gets fairly started. They have a genuine Republican administration in Manila, and Republicans do things.

The high prices of bread and meat are likely to ruin the sandwich trade everywhere but at the railroad hotels, where such things are little used in sandwiches.

No gentle reader, the hoop plants about to be started do not manufacture old-fashioned wearing apparel for ladies. These plants are more modern.

Judge Parker is "between the devil and the deep sea," according to Speaker Cannon. He will solve the question by escaping up Salt river.

The clothiers strike in New York has been declared off, just as many people were getting down to bathing suits for daily wear.

Those Chinese bandits who attacked a Russian detachment are evidently the sort who will kick a man when he is down.

The Vladivostok prize court seems to be subsidized to favor the czar's navy. Its decisions are always favorable.

The attempt of the Russian fleet to escape from Port Arthur recalls the fact that rats always desert a sinking ship.

Bryan is still Populistic and Democratic king of Nebraska, but even with fusion he cannot win the state in November.

Judge Parker threatens to make a few stump speeches. This will be welcome news at Republican headquarters.

Allegheny must draw attention to herself, even if she has to resort to the old expedient of graft charges.

Judge Parker, by talking so long and saying so little, proves himself the logical successor of Bryan.

The record crop of corn this year is likely to have an influence on the bourbon vote.

Talked of in Gotham

By ALEXANDER DODDS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Sun parlors are the newest thing in residential architecture here. For some years these glass covered rooms have been in existence in hospitals where their worth has been tested, wonderful results having been obtained in numerous diseases by simply permitting the patients to have unrestricted access to the glorious rays of Old Sol. The physicians at St. Luke's and the hospital endowed by J. Pierpont Morgan, where the sun treatment has been in vogue for several years, agree that the wonderful value of a sun parlor cannot be overestimated. The convalescent patients at these institutions are placed in the sun as soon as they are strong enough to stand the glare of the light and the natural warmth of the rays, then follows a phenomenally rapid recovery. The fad, for it has now grown to be such, has finally extended to the wealthy and many of the handsome residences have sun parlors incorporated with the other modern conveniences.

Even the Tenements Get More Light.

The passing of the old class tenement house is but another phase of this passing from darkness into light, and although the battle of the slums has but yet reached no further than the picket line, the results show a wonderful decrease in the mortuary records, particularly among the young. Persons who are interested in bringing the slums into sunlight have succeeded in doing away, by law, with the old dumb bell flat, with its inside dark rooms. The laws now require flat builders to so construct the tenements that every room is naturally lighted, which means, of course, more air, and the window boxes of cheery flowers.

How Love Found a Way.

Pitt street basks today in the glow of a sensational marriage in high life with all its concomitants—gossip, craning of necks and general excitement. The maker of imperial pies, Morris Epstein, in the flush of his 80 years, has taken unto himself a fifth wife, the others having died, more or less, full of years. The bride is Augusta Rabish, aged 18. Epstein for some years has carried pies to the Rabish home. Augusta loved pies; Epstein grew to love her. When she found that from the pies to the maker was but a step she took it and now Morris bakes better pies than ever. Connubial bliss has been his guiding star, for he claims to the love of helpful wives he owes all his highest inspirations in the art of constructing pies.

Parker Is Now a Museum Freak.

The young painter, Abbott Parker, who after he had been struck to earth by a lightning bolt, recovered to find himself branded with a picture of the crucifixion on his back, has become a dime museum freak. Huber's museum in Fourteenth street has got him and for the small price of a dime any citizen may have a look. There was a competition among the various managers, but Fourteenth street drew the prize, because Parker thought he would like to open his histrionic career with a metropolitan engagement. Although he cannot double in brass or play heavies it is whispered a fabulous salary is to be paid him and he is to continue all over the dime museum circuit of the country. Fortunately Pittsburgh will escape seeing the man who is making capital of his narrow escape from death, lacking the necessary dime museum.

Curtain Going Down on a Long Career.

In theatrical circles today it was reported that Mme. Janauschek, who has for some time been in failing health, had suffered another stroke of paralysis. She is now at a sanitarium at Amityville, Long Island. The fortune which she earned on the stage has been spent and now in the closing days of a long career she finds herself a charity upon the actors' fund. Mme. Janauschek in her prime was an actress of great force, but she has filled no engagements for several years.

Old Man of the Sea Beats Back Ships.

One of Father Neptune's inexplicable fancies is puzzling men of the sea. The hoary-bearded ruler of the waters, according to reports today, has been playing such tricks off the coast of Hatteras that half of the south bound schooners have been becalmed for days. Both wind and tide have combined forces and there seems no hope of immediate relief. In shore a new and very strong current gets the south bound vessels in its grasp and the schooners cannot get past the cape. Many of the skippers have become disgusted and have given up the struggle, the majority of the vessels now being anchored about 10 miles out at sea.

Brooklyn To Have Masonic Temple.

Much interest is evinced in the purchase of property by the Brooklyn Masonic guild by which the first step has been taken toward the erection in Brooklyn of a Masonic temple, the realization of the hopes of many leading members of that fraternity in Brooklyn for years. It is proposed to erect a temple at a cost of $250,000, which will be the home of the lodges now scattered all over the borough. It is in a residential section, easily accessible to street cars, and can be reached from all parts of the borough. It is directly opposite the new Roman Catholic cathedral, of which the chapel is only completed.

"Well?"

The Quiet Observer

By ERASMUS WILSON.

Speak, O, man, less recent! fragmentary fossil!
Primal pioneer of pliocene formation,
Hid in lowest drifts below the earliest stratum
Of volcanic tufa!

Older than the beasts, the oldest palaeotherium;
Older than the trees, the oldest cryptogami;
Older than the hills, these infantile eruptions
Of earth's epidermis!

Eo—mio—plio—whatsoe'er the scene was
That those vacant sockets filled with awe and wonder—
Whether sinuous devonian or silurian beaches—
Tell us thy strange story!

* * * * * *

"Which my name is Bowers, and my crust was busted
Falling down a shaft in Calaveras county,
But I'd take it kindly if you'd send the pieces
Home to old Missouri."

—Bret Harte.

Have you ever been in a fossil depository or repository, if you please, and therein held solemn conversation with remains that once were alive and moved, and had a being on this planet, or maybe in this very neck of the woods?

If not, but would like to get into a veritable crypt, one that doesn't smell badly and looks fairly well, just crawl into the catacombs underneath the Carnegie museum.

How to get there? Well, that hasn't anything to do with this narrative, or rather this fragment of a narrative.

It hath been said, or if it hath not it may be said that oftimes there is more satisfaction in finding the way than there is in being there. Besides, that which is not worth searching for, or laboring, or even suffering to achieve, is hardly worth bothering about.

Do you imagine that those cords and cords, and tons and tons of remains, fragmentary or otherwise, came stalking, or walking, or crawling, or flying, or swimming, or were blown into that crypt?

Not much. Every ton of them cost more than a ton of steel rails spiked down and ready for business.

Not only did they cost more a ton in dollars and cents, but in actual labor, to say nothing of the expenditure of intellectual energy, the risk of life and limb and mental anxiety and anguish.

Therefore, desire not to gaze on them without an effort, even a series of efforts.

* * * * *

True, they are all wrapped up, boxed and crated, but to the passionate communer with old bones and things this doesn't matter much, for all bones look alike, being nothing more than porous chunks of carbonate of lime, and not fresh lime at that.

It isn't the material thing itself with which you wish to commune, but through and by it you hope to project your mind, your intellectual proboscis, as it were, back, away back into existing conditions to which the mind of man runneth not, save it is carried and directed by fossil guides.

Any geologist who has been collecting specimens for a few years can furnish you with bits of rock much older than are these bones, but geological specimens haven't the power to thrill that accompanies the remains of things that once lived, and the fiercer and more formidable they were the greater the thrill.

May it not be that the spirit that animates us can recognize some element of life still existing in the remains of anything that was once alive?

Metaphysical? Perhaps; but think it over.

* * * * *

Considering that the bones of a dinosaurian causes such distinct thrills wouldn't the real, living, jumping thing itself just kill you?

Sure, and that's no joke.

Supposing you should meet one of these monsters some fine day while out for a stroll, what would you do?

The correct thing to do would be to telephone Dr. Holland, curator, at once, but the chances are your voice would be so trembly that no one could make head or tail of your message.

And yet, wouldn't you rather meet one of these than not—a real whopper that could lick salt off the roof of city hall, obstruct travel for the distance of an entire square, or cause a coal rise in the Davis dam pool by dropping in for a swim?

True, it might kill you, and probably would, but think of the honorable distinction that would become yours by having your life trampled out and your body squashed down deep in mud and mire by this terrible monster.

Surely it would be a great improvement over being butted into kingdom come by an insensate automobile, or having your mortal coil unwound and strewed along for a block or two by a soulless trolley car.

* * * * *

You may have a feeling that you would rather be excused; and yet there are a lot of people who would jump at such a chance to get their names printed in large letters in all the newspapers and have their pictures pasted up to advertise dinosaurian breakfast food, warranted to make little people grow big.

Should the trail of one of these mammoths be discovered hereabouts, say up among the "soap mines," wouldn't there be a stir among those of our sportsmen who delight in hunting big game? They wouldn't be in much danger for the reason that they hunt with long range guns, usually so long that it is necessary to have telescopes mounted on them (the guns) in order that the game may be seen.

This doesn't seem quite the square thing, seeing that the game is not similarly equipped. However, if you ever hunted for such paltry game as catamounts, grizzlies or even bob-tailed wild cats, you have, perhaps, realized the advantages and the desirability of telescope sight guns, for distance lends enchantment to the view of these beauties of the wildwood.

* * * * *

If you want to see the latest thing in the way of a boneyard, just wait until the new museum is finished. It will be so deep and so dark when the current is off, that those who are there will be immured in the fullest sense.

At least that may be the case, for the excavators for the foundations of the new building have scooped out some holes as big as a barn and as deep as a well. What else these can be used for except crypts, or catacombs, or bone deposits, one can hardly imagine, but there they are. And they will be needed, too, even if not another trainload of bones should ever be received.

And when those on hand are all strung up, and missing joints supplied, the museum will be a whole show of itself.

By the way, haven't you noticed that plaster of paris lacks the property of thrilling like true bone? From a chemical point of view there isn't much distinction, but psychologically they are distinctly different. Expert restorers may succeed in filling unsightly gaps and rents, but somehow they can't connect up the currents that thrill.

FABLES FROM THE NEWS.

The Party Leaders were discussing the Latest Effusion of Their Candidate.

"It's just like being out on a Hunting Trip, where you Expect to Live off the Results of your Ability to Shoot," said one. "You Expect Venison and Wild Turkey, then the Gun misses Fire and you have to go Back to Camp and dine off Breakfast Food and Stale Canned Goods."

"Thin as Soda Water," added a Bourbon.

The Leaders then went Further into the Woods, where they could properly Express their Feelings without Fear of the Blue Laws.

The Admiral in command of the Fleet of the Muscovites had Received Orders to Leave Port and Steam North.

"They seem to Think that because Kuropatkin is able to Move North whenever he Likes that it should be Just as Easy for Me. They Forget that he has the Assistance of three very Able Japanese Generals in his Movements."

Moved Out of the Harbor, but the Best he could do was to set his Face toward the Rising Sun.

"Whoever Heard of the Sun rising in the North!" he exclaimed Grimly, as he ordered the Battle to Begin.

Parker's Speech

Two things might have happened to make the choice of 1904 a choice between individuals rather than between parties standing on their respective records. Neither of the two things has happened. The first opportunity was deliberately avoided by the compromising tricksters at St. Louis. The second was deliberately thrown away at "Rosemount" yesterday. Barring Judge Parker's gold telegram of 1904, offsetting in some degree his two free silver votes for Bryan in 1896 and 1900, and barring a politic anti-second term pledge which might have been made, perhaps, more gracefully in an inaugural address after election, nothing has come from Judge Parker's lips or pen to indicate that he possesses a single political idea, marking him as a statesman of independent initiative of courage superior to the St. Louis brand, of stature to command and lead. With the two exceptions noted, he is an echo of the convention, and naught beside. He is yet the unknown quantity that he was throughout the preliminary period of silence prescribed by judicial dignity. Instead of rising above the platform Judge Parker has crawled pretty ignominiously beneath it, in our reluctantly expressed opinion. He himself has decreed that the choice of the independents shall be one of parties and records and principles, rather than of men. We have more faith in the distinct promises of the Chicago platform, not ignoring the many serious defects of that document, than we have in the miserable hell-broth of dishwater and dynamite concocted at St. Louis a month ago by a party afraid to renounce its criminal follies, and tasted yesterday at Esopus by a respectable candidate who declares with gusto that its flavor is admirable! We shall therefore advocate the election of Roosevelt and Fairbanks and advise the defeat of Parker and Davis; preserving our own absolute independence of organic control, and our freedom of judgment as to every specific question occurring. And may the Hon. Theodore Roosevelt's present mood continue, and if he is elected may the Discourager of Precipitancy stand always at his elbow!—New York Sun (Ind.).

The tone of Judge Parker's speech of acceptance is in perfect keeping with the sobered sense of the American people. Since the year 1898 we have not been at all times quite in our sober senses. War is an exciting business. The fever has lingered in our blood. The flush of it departs but slowly from some faces much in the view of the people, and the heat and passion of battle now and then glow again in the language of our chief public men. Judge Parker talks to us as one who from some high place looks across the smiling busy land, and in calm discourse reminds this people of certain well known principles of conduct and of government which they should not allow themselves to forget, and by occasion indicates errors of policy and behavior which it would benefit them to set right. He talks as one who if raised to the presidency would lead the country in the ways of wisdom, in the paths of peace. There is in his speech not the remotest suggestion of wars and tumults, not even the "rumble of the distant drum."—New York Times (Ind.-Dem.).

The judge's address, be it said, is a dignified and able composition. He steers his way carefully through the perilous labyrinths where his pathway lay, but with the skill of a lawyer who is also an artist he does not permit his auditors to discern any trace of the hesitation and dubiety that must have attended the framing of every phrase. Judge Parker's speech is well worth reading. It lacks the fire and animation that distinguish the every utterance of President Roosevelt, but it is dignified in tone and as clear in statement as is prudent or possible under the circumstances in which the judge is placed. If it does not gain votes for the Democratic ticket neither will it drive votes away.—Brooklyn Times (Ind.-Rep.).

The long-expected speech of Alton B. Parker accepting the nomination tendered by the St. Louis convention has been delivered. It is to be hoped that our Democratic friends are satisfied with it. It won't set the world afire. It won't even start a blaze beyond the precincts of Esopus. It gives the impression that its author was hard pressed to find anything to talk about, which is not singular, all things considered, for the Democratic party which he represents is without issue of moment.—Philadelphia Inquirer (Rep.).

Judge Parker's speech of acceptance throws very little light upon his mental political processes. It is a well written essay upon the Constitution and the form of government, but it lacks the snap of a campaign speech. It will probably cause discomfiture in those quarters where they like their political pabulum well spiced and directly to the point. It is a disappointing speech, disappointing to all who hoped to hear Judge Parker assume a definite tone on the subjects of interest, whether they are Republicans or Democrats. Much depends upon the letter of acceptance as to whether this feeling will be removed. But judging from the literary style of the speech it is to be feared that the letter will read even more suggestively like a judicial decision rather than a campaign document.—Washington Star (Ind.-Rep.).

No longer under official restraint, in formally accepting the Democratic nomination for the presidency yesterday Alton B. Parker placed himself unreservedly upon the platform adopted at St. Louis and indicated his position upon what he regards as the main issues between the great parties contending for the control of the government. He insists upon a rigid maintenance of the powers conferred by the Constitution upon the executive, legislative and judicial departments of the federal government against all usurpation of undelegated authority upon the part of either or upon the part of a body of men acting without a commission from the people. This is a direct challenge of the headlong tendency of Republican administration toward a centralized authority and the substitution of the executive edict for legislative and judicial determinations.—Philadelphia Record (Dem.).

Those who have expected that on the removal of the judicial seal from his lips Judge Parker would show himself a great constructive statesman are doomed to disappointment. His speech of acceptance is a studied and dexterous appeal for the votes of the colorless. It is not conservative, but negative. Making the most of the pose of judicial temperament and superior devotion to law, the candidate runs away from any definite statement on any vital issue before the country, divorces himself as far as possible from the Democratic masses, and seeks to convey the impression that if he were elected the government would go on about as now. He reiterates traditional Democratic platitudes, but when it comes to actual policies he has nothing to offer but assurances that he will do no harm.—New York Tribune (Rep.).

Yesterday Mr. Parker was formally notified of his nomination. His acceptance of it was in all ways suggestive of the wise and patriotic American who stood resolute in his purpose to put aside the honor of a presidential nomination rather than sacrifice to political expediency a single principle. That which will inevitably impress the thoughtful, unprejudiced reader of Mr. Parker's speech is its fine conservatism, the judicial tone which characterizes it, the broad, profound spirit of patriotism—free from all demagogism—which pervades every part of its and the scholarly form of it.—Philadelphia Public Ledger (Ind.-Dem.).

The speech does not fulfill the promise of the gold standard telegram. That exhibition suggested the possibility of bold, vigorous, dominant personality. The speech suggests nothing above decorous and respectable mediocrity. It is heavy, turgid and nebulous. It lacks terse, incisive, epigrammatic force. It shows no power to crystallize though in clear cut and lambent form. Nor is the defect simply one of expression. Behind the cumbrous manner there is no original, striking and forceful matter. You cannot read in this speech any sign that its competent author would dominate his party—that he would be greater or better. On the contrary, its tone and atmosphere and substance all indicate that he would go along with the party current.—Philadelphia Press (Rep.).

Noisy Evidence of Prosperity.

As an evidence of prosperity, the statement comes that Kansas has 18,000 pianos. By the application of arithmetic and experience to this statement we arrive at the conclusion that there are six piano players in the state.—Philadelphia Ledger.

CROATS START RIOT IN CHURCH

300 Members of St. Nicholas Congregation, Allegheny, Engage in Fisticuffs.

TROUBLE OF LONG STANDING

The efforts of the Rev. Father Bosiljko Bekavac, rector of St. Nicholas Roman Catholic church of Allegheny, to open that edifice last night, after it had been closed for five weeks by Coadjutor Bishop J. F. Regis Canevin, precipitated a riot from which scores of black eyes and bleeding noses were carried away as souvenirs by the church members. The fight is but a continuation of the bitter strife that has existed in the church for the past year, and will necessitate further intervention on the part of the Bishop of the Pittsburgh diocese.

Shortly before 9 o'clock last night a riot call was sent to Central station from the rectory of St. Nicholas church, the only Croatian church on the North Side. Before the officers arrived the belligerents had been warned and disappeared. No arrests were made, but a series of suits for assault and battery will likely be a sequel to the battle.

The trouble had its origin two years ago when the congregation subscribed $40,000 for the erection of the present church building. The members contributing formed a corporation that was to be reimbursed from time to time out of the revenues of the church. Recently factional differences arose and those opposed to the policy of Father Bekavac demanded the immediate payment of what was still due them in return for their contributions to the church building fund. The financial condition of the church was such that it was impossible to satisfy the calls made by the wranglers. This increased the bitterness, which mounted to such a pitch that five weeks ago Bishop Canevin ordered the church closed.

Since then there have been no services held, and the majority faction supporting Father Bekavac has fretted under the unusual condition. A plea was made to Bishop Canevin and on Wednesday he met committees representing both factions.

Father Bekavac was instructed to call a congregational meeting last night, have the differences thoroughly talked over and some settlement effected. This program was well under way when, according to Father Bekavac, about 100 of the opposing faction entered the church, headed by those who are endeavoring to develop a schism in the congregation. Joseph Rudan, who was addressing the audience from the pulpit, was thrown to the floor and a mix-up followed that promised to become a dangerous riot. The police found several of the faithful supporters of the pastor nursing broken noses and bruised faces, and swearing vengeance on their assailants.

Father Bekavac declared that some time ago four of the leaders of the faction opposing him bought a piece of property for $3,000 and tried to force it on the congregation for $10,000 to be used as a church cemetery. Their scheme was balked and to revenge themselves they are endeavoring to cause a split in the congregation and to bring about the resignation of the pastor. Until the church is rid of these disturbers, Father Bekavac said last night, it would be useless to try to carry on religious services, even under the strict supervision of Bishop Canevin.

THIEVES WERE CHASED TWICE IN BRADDOCK

Colored Butler Fired at Buglars and Jeweler's Clerk Had a Run After Others.

Burglars made an unsuccessful attempt to rob the home of Wilson C. Packer near the Pennsylvania railroad depot at Braddock early yesterday morning, and they were only driven away after five shots had been fired at them by Robert Wilson, the negro butler employed in the household. Mrs. Packer was awakened shortly after 2 o'clock by a noise at the front door, and thinking it was her husband, who was expected to return home from camp, she went to the hall and asked who was there.

Receiving no response she awakened the colored butler, who was sleeping on the third floor. Wilson armed himself with a revolver and awaited developments at the door. In a short time a brick was hurled through the glass in the door and the two men standing on the porch commenced removing the broken glass from the door, preparatory to entering the house.

Wilson opened fire on the intruders and thinks he hit one of them. Both escaped in the darkness.

An exciting encounter took place about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the jewelry store of Abraham Schmidt at 710 Braddock avenue, Braddock, between two strangers and Max Schmidt, a nephew of the proprietor. It is alleged that the strangers tried to snatch a handful of rings. The clerk was assaulted after which the men escaped from the store.

Young Schmidt immediately gave the alarm and Policeman Michael Ondrey started in pursuit. The chase lasted for several squares up Braddock avenue, and when the policeman finally captured the fugitives there was a crowd of several hundred people at his heels.

The men said they were from Pittsburgh but refused to tell their names. When searched they had three rings, none of which was identified as the property of the Braddock jeweler.

DEMANDS FOR LOCATIONS.

Many Applications for Stands in the New Pittsburgh Exposition.

The number of exhibits to date at the new Pittsburgh Exposition is just 104. Each exhibitor has promised to have a complete display on the opening night of the coming season, Wednesday, August 31. Several locations are yet to be disposed of, but for each space there are two and three applicants, so it is merely a question of selection on the part of the management.

An electrical exhibit, entirely new, will be seen in the main building. Of incandescent and other styles of electric lights there will be an abundance, decoratively arranged, but the feature of this corner is to be a miniature park, beautifully laid out, brilliantly illuminated and traversed by several lines of pigmy trolley cars.

UNKNOWN JUMPS INTO THE RIVER

Leaped Off a Shanty Boat Once Safely, but the Second Time Disappeared.

KASIDI CASE LOOKS SERIOUS

An unknown man jumped from a shanty boat into the Monongahela river at the foot of South Thirteenth street about 9 o'clock last night and was evidently drowned. Boys saw the man, who appeared to be intoxicated, walk down to the river and wade out into the water. After floundering about for a few moments he came out and climbed aboard of the shanty boat, and, diving into the water, did not come to the surface again. The boys reported the case to the South Thirteenth street police station and the officers sent men with grappling hooks to try to recover the body. At a late hour last night it had not been found.

The body of Catherine A. Kasidi, who died last Sunday and was buried at St. Mary's cemetery the next day, was exhumed yesterday by the order of Coroner McGeary and an examination made by Drs. A. J. Barchfeld and J. C. Boggs. It was found that death was caused by peritonitis. After the wamon was buried her daughter told the coroner her mother said her death was caused by a friend. The coroner immediately ordered an investigation and the inquest in the case will be held today. It is expected arrests will follow.

Joseph Hemphill, colored, aged 34, a miner, died in Mercy hospital yesterday morning as the result of injuries received in the mines at Westland station on July 10.

The body of Joseph Braunstein, aged 16, was found floating down the Monongahela river at the foot of South Sixth street yesterday morning. The boy lived in Webster avenue and is thought to have been drowned on Wednesday.

Frank Young, aged 40, of Second avenue, Homestead, was found dead in bed early yesterday morning. Death was due to heart failure.

Elmer Hook, aged 13 months, of Jordans run, fell into a cistern in the rear of his home at noon yesterday and was drowned.

CIGARS UNION

WE have several hundred successful stores. Thousands of cigars go to the consumers over our counters every hour—enough to keep a dozen modern factories busy—these factories grow their own Havana tobacco on their own plantations. There is a tremendous saving in this direct method—this saving goes into quality—it means you get cigars better by 30 to 50 per cent whether you pay $3.00 or $15.00 per hundred—it works all the way through.

Our suggestion for this week is the

WILL WAGE WAR IN PENNSYLVANIA

Democrats Threaten to Make a Fight for Congressmen in This State.

CLAIMING SEVERAL DISTRICTS

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 11.

The Democratic congressional campaign committee proposes to carry the fight into Pennsylvania this fall with the idea of winning four or five congressional districts from the Republicans. A letter was received at headquarters here today from J. K. P. Hall, Democratic state chairman, giving the names and addresses of the Democratic county chairmen of Pennsylvania, and within a short time the plans for the campaign in that state will be formulated. Col. Charles R. Edwards, secretary of the Democratic congressional campaign committee, today said:

"We will win sure in the Twentieth district of Pennsylvania, the York-Adams district, now represented by Daniel F. Lafean. We also consider the Scranton district good fighting ground and will gain a member there. There are two or three other districts in that state which we will try for, and altogether I think we will make quite a hole in the Republican delegation from Pennsylvania. I cannot tell you at present just what districts we have in mind other than those mentioned, but we will begin work there soon."

The Twentieth district mentioned by Col. Edwards was carried by Mr. Lafean two years ago by a majority of 591. Pattison, the Democratic candidate for governor, carried it by 3,558. It is believed that Mr. Lafean can hold his own in the district in the work of the next Democratic congressional committee.

The Tenth district (Scranton) is now represented by William Connell, but on the face of the returns two years ago George Howell, Democrat, was elected by 401 majority. A contest was made and after the committee on elections had taken the evidence a report was made to the house recommending that Howell be unseated and that Mr. Connell be given the seat. This action was taken and thereupon Howell swore he would again be a candidate for congress. However, he wanted to run against Mr. Connell, and as the latter is not a candidate for re-election it is not known whether Howell will enter the race. The Scranton district is considered a safe Republican one and the congressional committee's work there will not be calculated to scare the Republicans to any extent.

What other Pennsylvania districts are to be invaded cannot be ascertained at this time, but it is not believed that the congressional committee will waste any time or money on the western district.

QUICKSAND HAS BURIED MANY WRECK VICTIMS

Carefully Revised Reports Confirm Original Estimate That 100 Lives Were Lost.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PUEBLO, COL., Aug. 11.—During the funerals of many of the victims of the Eden disaster that were held today, all the large business houses were closed, notices posted on the doors reading: "Because of the city's dead."

Further shipments of bodies to points outside this state include Captain Frank Bodeman to Florence, Mass.; Miss Carrie M. Bishop to Hartford, Conn., and Mrs. L. A. Stevens to Northampton, Mass.

Developments indicate that the bodies of the missing victims have been sucked into the quicksands and will never be recovered. It was shown by the hoisting of the wrecked engine that an immense deposit of quicksand lay under the piers of the wrecked bridge, and it is also believed there is an underflow that has carried bodies deep down into the sand.

Careful revision of the lists of dead and missing confirms the original estimate that not less than 100 lives were lost.

Relics of the wreck found by searchers may prove valuable clews in cases of mysterious disappearance. Among these finds are two watches, one numbered 6,367,077, the other 5,827,389. The first of the numbers is stamped in a hunting case watch which contains in the back of the case photographs of a man and woman. On the photograph of the woman appear the initials "F. C. B." in black ink.

A package containing five souvenir spoons and a card bearing the name of "Dr. Lynn D. Matthews," has been found.

"E. J. Schurman of Warrensburg, Warrensburg, Mo." was written on the tag of a valise.

NEGRO WILL CONTEST THE JIM CROW LAW

Atlantic City Colored Physician Claims $5,000 Damages for Being Subjected to Its Indignity.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—Papers have been prepared in a suit to be brought in the local courts within the next few days by William T. Finley, a colored physician of Atlantic City, against the Baltimore & Philadelphia Steamship Company to recover $5,000 damages for having been subjected to the Jim Crow law of Maryland.

On the first of the month, Finley declares, he purchased a ticket at the company's wharf on the Delaware for a first-class passage in one of its boats from this city to Baltimore. The doctor remained on the second or middle deck of the boat until midnight, when the Maryland line was reached. He says that he was then aroused from his sleep by an official of the company, who ordered him to the upper deck of the boat. Finley remonstrated, claiming that his ticket called for a first-class passage, but the officer told him that the "nigger" apartment was above, and unless he went there he would be arrested and fined $10.

EIGHT INJURED IN BURNING CAR

Went Sweeping Along a Street in New York Like a Chariot of Fire.

VICTIMS MADE FRANTIC RUSH

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, Aug. 11.

Seven girls and a 3-year-old baby were so badly injured by the blowing out of a fuse today on a car of the Flushing avenue line, Brooklyn, that four of them were sent to the Cumberland street hospital and the others required medical attention from a ambulance physician before they were able to go to their homes. A score of other passengers were less severely injured. The extent of the casualties was due to the fact that another car was alongside when the flames shot forth, and the rush to escape was not confined to the burning car.

The motor box on the west-bound car blew out as it was in line with the eastbound. A sheet of flame swept forth, and in a moment set fire to the light dresses of the young women who were on the first few seats. With the car sweeping along, a chariot of fire, the passengers on both tracks made a frantic rush to leave the cars.

In their alarm several of the men passengers tried to climb over the women, several of whom were thrown down and trampled on. Others of the women passengers jumped so hastily that they fell headlong on the pavement. Before the burning car stopped more than a score of women were lying on the street stunned and bruised.

Passengers on the other car were a little less active in rushing away from the flames. The police of the Flushing avenue station were soon at the scene and called an ambulance.

MOTHER BETRAYED SON WHO DESERTED ARMY

Gave Information to Authorities Which Separated Soldier from Sweetheart.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

MERIDEN, CONN., Aug. 11.—Rather than have her son, a deserter from the United States army, live here in seclusion at the home of a girl of whom he was enamored and whom she considered undesirable, Mrs. James Henderson today betrayed his hiding place to the authorities and gave him up to punishment. He was taken to Fort Wadsworth at New York by a policeman.

Thomas F. Henderson, the son, dared everything to be with his sweetheart, even to being shot down while working his escape from the army station, only to find that his mother's determination to see him parted from the girl led to his capture when all other means failed. He will be courtmartialed and faces a long term of solitary confinement, if not a more severe penalty.

Local officers did not know Henderson was in town until a telegram came from the fort to that effect, news having been received there from Mrs. Henderson.

CONSUL FROM KONGO.

King Leopold Has Appointed First Representative to the United States.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—With a view to strengthening the commercial and friendly relations between the United States and the Kongo, King Leopold has appointed James Gustavus Whitely as consul of the Independent Kongo state in this country. He has represented the government of the United States at several international congresses, is an associate of the Institute of International Law, a fellow of the Royal Historical society of Great Britain and corresponding member of the Society of Diplomatic History of France.

STATESMAN TO BE BURIED WITHOUT PALL-BEARERS

PARIS, Aug. 11.—In accordance with the frequently expressed wishes of the late M. Waldeck-Rousseau, his widow has decided that his funeral shall be of the simplest character, without floral wreaths, military honors, pall-bearers or speeches. The body will be placed in a coffin this evening and conveyed from Corbeil to Paris during the night. On its arrival here the remains will be deposited in the church of Ste. Clotilde, where the funeral ceremony will take place Saturday morning. The burial will take place from Montmartre cemetery. President Loubet will be represented by his secretaries. The members of the cabinet will probably attend privately.

JAMESTOWN ALSO HAS ITS JEWEL MYSTERY

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 11.—(Special.)—Not to be outdone by Newport, Jamestown also has its jewel mystery. Mrs. Ephraim Brice of Philadelphia, a summer resident there, has lost a diamond horseshoe ornament of considerable value and today a thorough search was begun for it. Mrs. Brice does not know whether she lost it or someone stole it. The ferryboat between Newport and Jamestown was searched today. Mr. Brice taking charge, and if the jewel is not recovered a detective may be called into the case tomorrow.

FAIRBANKS GREETS THE FRIENDS OF HIS YOUTH

Gala Event at Old Home of Vice Presidential Candidate—Aged Mother Was There.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

MARYSVILLE, O., Aug. 11.—Ten thousand people gathered here this afternoon to welcome United States Senator Fairbanks, Republican nominee for vice president. Mr. Fairbanks was born in Unionville, not far from here. Today he was accompanied to Marysville by his wife and by his aged mother, the latter a resident of Springfield. On his arrival here he was met by the reception committee, while old friends, some of whom he had gone to school with, crowded around to say, "How do you do, Charlie."

Senator Fairbanks, in an address made later to his old friends and neighbors, alluded to his boyhood days in Union county, told of old associations and called up many pleasant memories. He declined to discuss politics, saying it would be in bad form. In concluding his address he said:

"My friends, we have come from widely separated sections of our common country, from different states, to meet and mingle once more in the home of our youth. We have forgotten for the hour past differences. A political word would mar the harmony of this memorable occasion. I shall not utter it. The growth of this community, which is so manifest and gratifying to us, is but an evidence of that larger and splendid development of our common country. We rejoice that we are American citizens.

"There never was an hour when American citizenship meant more than it does today. We are the joint inheritors of the priceless institutions begueathed to us by the valor and sacrifices of our fathers. A mighty responsibility rests upon us to preserve them unimpaired and transmit them with all their splendid significance to those who shall follow us. The flag above us is the blessed emblem of the unity of the republic. It stands for the equality of all before the law. It stands, not for the government by the few, but for a government by all who owe it their allegiance without racial or sectional distinction."

FUSION IN NEBRASKA A VICTORY FOR BRYAN

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

LINCOLN, NEB., Aug. 11.—After a session lasting all night, the Democrats and Populists of Nebraska completed their state ticket here today. The ticket is as follows:

Governor, George W. Berge, Populist; lieutenant governor, Dr. A. Townsend, Democrat; secretary of state, R. E. Watzke, Democrat; state treasurer, John M. Osborne, Populist; auditor, J. S. Canady, Populist; attorney general, Edward Whalen, Democrat; land commissioner, A. A. Worsley, Populist; superintendent of public instruction, Albert Softley, Populist.

The completion of fusion is a victory for William J. Bryan, who was opposed to Thomas E. Watson, the Populist candidate for president.

Thomas H. Tibbles, candidate for vice president on the Populist ticket, heads the bolt against the fusion agreement, and today attended a bolters' convention. Nearly 100 delegates, representing 27 counties, were present, and a committee was appointed to take steps towards organizing clubs along the line of the Old Grange, reviving the People's party and working against the fusion ticket in Nebraska. The old secret oath plan of the grange will be used, and as soon as the club movement is started, Mr. Tibbles and others will issue a call for a straight Populist convention to nominate a state ticket.

The Populists' national committee chose Peoria, Ill., as national headquarters. The committee issued instructions to Kansas Populists that a new state ticket be nominated, or that the present fusion ticket be filed again under a Populist name instead of under the fusion name of "Union party." The committee fears that without the name "Populist" the ticket will lose votes.

PERSONALS

"It would be a capital thing," said M. E. La Quay of the republic of Haiti, "if more of our young men came from Haiti to the United States to acquire an education, instead of going to France, Germany and other foreign schools to study. One of the main reasons is they do not necounter hostile treatmen based on their color. Unfortunately, in America there is racial prejudice, and the Haitiens, being sensitive, dread exposing themselves to what they consider unkind treatment. In this country nearly everything that is to the disadvantage of Haiti is magnified, whereas our good points are never mentioned. I wish the people of the United States knew us better and that my people knew the Americans as they really are, for then the misconceptions that are mutually entertained would disappear."

Another of the German parties touring this country arrived in the city last evening. There are 32 in this group, escorted by M. Frank and Dr. Meleer. Upon arriving in the city over the Baltimore & Ohio, they registered at the Monongahela house. Today they will visit the industrial works and tomorrow will leave for St. Louis to see the world's fair.

James G. Watts, formerly state representative of Delaware county, now living in Pittsburgh on business, leaving last evening for the east.

Morgan L. Morgan, an ex-Pittsburgher, who is now clerk to Judge Tuthill of the juvenile court of Cook county, Ill., is in Pittsburgh visiting friends and relatives. He used to be a well-known South Side iron worker.

Harry Moore, director of public safety, left last night for Patusque, Mich., on a vacation and will remain away until September 1.

Councilman George S. Fleming, who has been lying critically ill at his residence in Forbes street, was reported much improved last evening and for the first time several weeks was permitted to partake of solid food. While his condition is still grave his chances for recovery are considered encouraging.

About 20 members of the Frank J. Russ Hunting and Fishing club leave Sunday night for Sand Point, Clear lake, Canada, where they will camp for the first time. Weber, Thomas Fife, Emil Hasselman, Joseph Weber, J. P. Deagon, Frank Jeffries, William Puder and H. Weisbecker.

He was accompanied by August Luchow of New York, who owns the "Alps."

H. B. Kane, general agent of the Northern Pacific, spent yesterday in Pittsburgh on business.

Sheldon Parks, treasurer of the Allegheny Coal Company, which owns the Harwick mine, arrived in Pittsburgh from his Cleveland headquarters yesterday evening. He says the mine in which an explosion occurred last January is running to its full capacity.

KEY NEEDED FOR PARKER'S SPEECH

Gov. Odell Says "Jeffersonian Simplicity" Phrase Was Fixed Up by David B. Hill.

LABOR QUESTION STRADDLED

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, Aug. 11.

Gov. Odell had this to say today about Judge Parker's speech of acceptance:

"The speech needs a key. What does Judge Parker mean by Jeffersonian simplicity, and how does that fit in with anti-imperialism? I regard Thomas Jefferson as the greatest imperialist this country has produced. He certainly was president of a vast country which came into the union without the consent of the governed. The story about his riding on horseback to Washington to be inaugurated is of the William Tell and George Washington hatchet kind. Jefferson was really an aristocrat. Jeffersonian simplicity is a phrase fixed up by David B. Hill to put in Judge Parker's speech. It is a useful phrase for the Democrats. When they have no winning issues they raise the cry of Jeffersonian simplicity.

"Judge Parker's talk on the labor question is a straddle. It needs a key to explain it. Taken altogether, I am well satisfied with the speech of acceptance. It will make Republican votes. I have met more than one man today who said he would support Roosevelt, although he was inclined to Parker up to yesterday."

The Republican national headquarters was a busy place today. Workmen had been engaged over night in putting the individual offices in order and this morning each committeeman had his rooms allotted to him; a private office and an outer one in which visitors may remain while waiting for an audience. With this much done, the air of confusion which has prevailed since the headquarters were opened Monday gave way to quiet, business-like methods. The force of clerks and messengers have been greatly increased, too, until finally things are on a good working basis.

Chairman Cortelyou was late in arriving this morning. He explained to impatient visitors that he had stopped at the Fifth Avenue hotel to inquire concerning the health of Senator Scott, who was taken ill yesterday, and to have a word with Senator Platt and Gov. Odell.

ALEXANDER DODDS.

SUIT OVER BEQUEST IS ENDED AFTER TEN YEARS

UNIONTOWN, PA., Aug. 11.—(Special.)—The prolonged litigation over the estate of Andrew Stewart has finally been settled. Mr. Stewart, who was an ex-congressman, died a little over 20th, the owner of about 20,000 acres of land in Fayette county. He willed it all to his wife, but there was a question whether the bequest was absolute or during the wife's lifetime only. Mrs. Stewart died in 1894 and litigation began. Attorney J. C. Work was appointed master and about 20 hearings were held and volumes of testimony taken. The master's report was filed recently and has now been confirmed. The court allowed $1,500 to the master and $3,000 for counsel fees and costs.

BIG CHECK SIGNED FOR DEWEY AND HIS MEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(Special.)—Secretary Shaw has received from the supreme court of the District of Columbia awards made in the litigation over the prize money derived from the capture of Montojo's fleet by Admiral Dewey in Manila bay, May 1, 1898. One of the two checks delivered was for $370,365 25, representing the share which will revert to the captors, and the other for $370,838 24, which represented the share which will accrue to the naval pension fund. Then there were some other checks, including one for $82,867 88 in fees for Herbert and Mccu, attorneys, who handled the case in the courts.

THE CRUISER DUBUQUE TO HAVE TWO SPONSERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Two young ladies have been invited to christen the cruiser Dubuque and they will share this honor if both accept. The Dubuque is building at Morris Heights, N. Y.

FOUND HIS FRIEND'S BODY AFTER SEARCH OF MONTHS

OIL CITY, PA., Aug. 11.—(Special.)—Thomas McIntosh of this city returned home today after locating the body of his friend, Samuel Shannon, for whom he had been searching for months in a St. Louis graveyard. Shannon was a prosperous oil man who disappeared from his lease in West Virginia, April 12, saying he was going to Pittsburgh for medical treatment. He died in a St. Louis hospital on April 29 and was buried in the Potter's field as an unknown. The body will be exhumed and brought here.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BOSTON, MASS., Aug. 11.—The hoodoo which has been pursuing the Champion Pittsburghs must be still unappeased, for victory by 7 to 2 over Boston here today was only bought at the price of another addition to the hospital list. In snapping the ball to Wagner, Catcher Smith wrenched a ligament in his throwing forearm, and will be out of the game for a week.

Despite this extra spurt on the part of the powers of evil, President Dreyfuss, who, with President Pulliam and Manager Selee of Chicago, saw the game, maintained stoutly that his team has still a chance for another pennant.

Boston fans could hardly believe their eyes when the Pittsburghs spread themselves over the south end lot. Of the stars whose countenance they made during the season's series last fall only Beaumont, Wagner, Smith and Ritchey were to be seen, and Wagner was playing first base instead of shortstop. Kruger and Diehl have some resemblance physically to the regular players whose positions they occupied, and both men were very prominent with timely hits, but there the resemblance ended.

The wildness of Willis, costly errors by the Hubbites, and slashing hits when hits meant scores, tells the tale briefly. Pittsburgh rolled up 7 runs on 8 hits.

Flaherty was effective, but he, too, was liberal with his passes. Pittsburgh lost no time in striking a winning stride. With two out in the first Cassidy drew the first of Willis' many passes. Wagner singled and then stole second. Kruger was hit by pitcher and took a bad strike, but shot a single into right that scored both men. Boston nearly tied it up. Kruger was slow on Geier's grounder, and let Tenney's throw get away. Geier stole to third on a long fly to Beaumont and Geier scored on a fielder's choice.

The Hubbites did die in the fifth and had a great chance to do more. Carnell's hit, followed by a sacrifice by Warner of Carney's low liner, Needham's out, a pass, Geier's single and still another pass gave them a run, and filled the bases. Flaherty put on steam, however, and Schaefer's grounder died.

Pittsburgh promptly wrenched the lead away. Cassidy singled in the sixth and Wagner's drive down the left chalk line was ample for two bases. With two out Willis intentionally walked Ritchey, but regretted his liberality when Diehl poked a clean hit into center field, scoring two runs. For good measure Flaherty in the seventh bumped the first ball pitched over the right field fence for a home run and the eighth and ninth were each productive of a run.

In the eighth, Kruger and Ritchey walked, and Diehl sacrificed. Kruger was out at the plate on Carney's grounder, but Delehanty failed to cover second on Flaherty's tap. Abbatichio made a wild throw to Tenney and Ritchey tramped home. Geier bungled on Beaumont's drive in the ninth and he went to third, scoring on another hit by Kruger. Lynch and Pittinger pitch tomorrow. The score:

NEWS OF THE NEARBY TOWNS AND COUNTRY

GRAFT IS CHARGED IN CAPITOL CONTRACT

Democratic Senator Makes Allegation and Governor Compels an Investigation.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHARLESTON, W. VA., Aug. 11.—During the consideration of appropriation measures in the senate, Senator Kidd, Democrat, of Gilmer county, intimated today that there had been jobbery in connection with the letting of the contract for furnishing the supreme court's new quarters in the capitol annex. A Youngstown, O., concern received the contract recently at their bid of $26,682.

Today Gov. White sent a special message to the senate demanding the appointment of a committee to investigate the charges, which was provided for. Senators Farmer of Harrison, Northcott of Cabell and Kidd of Gilmer were named as the committee. There is said to be no foundation for such a charge made by Senator Kidd, but the executive prefers to have the matter settled beyond a doubt. The members are making preparations to get back to their homes tomorrow.

By tomorrow night is is probable the calendar will be clear and adjournment will be taken. Busy sessions were held in both senate and house today and some of the most important of the measures hanging fire were disposed of. Among them the bill creating the office of tax commissioner and providing for the reassessment of the real and personal property of the state, beginning January 1, was passed by the house. The measure as passed has but few amendments and will be put through the senate without amendment.

The house also passed the bill relating to the license taxes, which on Wednesday was referred to a joint committee. The retention of the chief amendment, that to fix graduated tax on breweries was recommended by the committee and the bill as passed contains this amendment, the only difference being in an arrangement of the classification by which breweries having a capacity of from 10,000 to 25,000 barrels will pay a tax of $1,000, while for those under 10,000 the tax of $600 is retained. The appropriation bills were passed in both branches to take effect from the date of passage.

INJUNCTION IS SPRUNG IN STREET CAR FIGHT

Traction Company Proceeds to Lay Tracks After Being Refused Franchise.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW CASTLE, PA., Aug. 11.—A surprise was sprung here today when Judge William D. Wallace issued a temporary injunction restraining the Pennsylvania & Mahoning Valley electric railway from laying a second track on Washington street. The injunction was secured by ex-County Commissioner Stewart Thompson, now deputy United States internal revenue collector. Thompson alleges the track was being put down in direct violation of the city ordinances.

The matter is of more than ordinary interest, as it is expected the Pennsylvania & Mahoning Valley line will attempt to connect at the city line with its New Castle & Youngstown branch, which councils have refused permission to enter the city. It is expected the local and interburban lines will be connected outside the city with the Washington street double-track is completed, thereby stealing a march on councils.

On Monday select council gave permission for a second track in West Washington street, but the matter has not yet been acted upon by common council. In spite of this the traction company put more than 100 men to work today and were stopped by the injunction.

NEGRO MURDERER HANGED AT EBENSBURG

FRANK DAVIS,
Who paid the death penalty for killing Laura Turner.

NEGRO MURDERER DIED SMILING ON SCAFFOLD

Said It Was Happiest Day of His Life—He Killed Two Women.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

JOHNSTOWN, PA., Aug. 11.—Frank Davis, negro, was hanged in the Ebensburg jail yard this afternoon for the murder of Laura Taylor, negress, in this city. He met his end bravely, smiled on the scaffold and made a speech, without a tremor in his voice. His speech was really a sermon, as he has been very religious of late months. The drop fell at 1:32 and at 1:45 he was pronounced dead from strangulation.

Before he retired last night Davis asked for ice cream and cake, which he ate with a relish. Then he lay down and slept like a babe. He ate a hearty breakfast this morning and declared to the warden, "It is the happiest day of my life."

Davis killed Laura Taylor, his paramour, on August 19, 1902. Davis slashed the woman's throat with a razor, and then turned the blade on himself. When the officers arrived the woman was dead and Davis, gasping for breath, was lying across a bed. He was removed to a hospital, where he soon recovered.

From the time of his arrest until the latter part of May of the present year, Davis insisted that Laura Taylor woman had attempted to kill him while he was sleeping and had then killed herself. Shortly after sentence had been passed upon him Davis professed religion and afterwards made two confessions—the first, that he had committed the deed for which he was hanged, and that he had a number of years ago murdered a woman with whom he was living in Jacksonville, Fla., by choking her to death.

The family was founded by James Stevenson, who came to America from Ireland in 1834. After the revolution he located at Poland, O. During the revolution he was captured by the British and held prisoner nine months at Philadelphia. During his captivity he made love to the daughter of Col. Bull, the English officer in charge of the prisoners, and married her after being released. He was twice married and had 18 children. Mrs. Eliza Stevenson of this city, aged 83, was the oldest person present.

She was a daughter-in-law of the original Stevenson. The youngest person present was one-year-old Leonard, son of Joseph Edwards of Rochester, Pa., who is a great-great-grandchild of James Stevenson. [SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Aug. 11.—The greatest demonstration in the history of the Western Pennsylvania Volunteer Firemen's association occurred this afternoon, when 5,000 uniformed firemen, with their apparatus, 2,000 citizens on horseback and in carriages and 20 bands paraded the streets of Connellsville and New Haven. The parade was three miles long and started from the South Side, headed by the Fourteenth regiment band.

After the band came Chief Marshall Rockwell Marietta and his staff—Dr. H. J. Coll, chief; Attorney W. H. Brown, assistant chief; Capt. Lloyd Johnson, adjutant general, and Capt. Edmund Dunn, assistant adjutant general. The formation of the parade follows:

It has always been customary for the band in which the last convention is held to lead the parade and Latrobe claimed the honor this time.

The Hill Top fire department of Pittsburgh turned out 50 strong in white duck trousers, black shirts and white caps. They made a fine appearance and received applause along the thoroughfares Uniontown, Greensburg, McKees Rocks and Sharpsburg all made a splendid appearance. The Uniontown companies brought the first fire engine to Connellsville that has ever been in the town, as well as a modern pumping engine. One of the features of the parade was the Baltimore & Ohio fire department, 30 strong. This is the first year that the Baltimore & Ohio Company has ever turned out, and dressed in their blue shop overalls, black shirts and white caps they created unusual interest. Among those occupying carriages in the parade was Mayor Falkenstein of McKeesport, and McKeesport and Pittsburgh councilmen. They shouted lustily for their home towns and were cheered.

Safebreakers Operated on Postoffice, But Were Scared Off Twice.

FORD CITY, PA., Aug. 11.—(Special.)—Three burglars made two attempts to rob the postoffice safe early this morning, but were frightened away after they had broken off the handle and had charged the opening with nitro-glycerine and had attached a fuse. Fred Porter, who lives in the next building, heard a noise. He opened the porch door and saw a man watching in the rear of the postoffice. He was seen at the same time by the sentinel, who gave the alarm to his partners inside.

They all ran to the Presbyterian church lawn. They then returned to the postoffice to finish their work, but Porter had secured a revolver and was about to discharge it to summon the police when the robbers suddenly left. A hammer, a heavy steel punch and a large monkey-wrench were left by the robbers.

DUBOIS, PA., Aug. 11.—(Special.)—Dr. McLeod, secretary of the state board of charities, and Cadwallader Biddle, general agent for the board, are making the annual inspection of jails, county homes, hospitals and other institutions of this section receiving state aid. The agreement was then reached that the charges of gambling preferred against four firemen at the street fair should be nolle prossed.

THE engagement of Miss Virginia Frances Bughman, the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clay Bughman, and William White, Jr., has been announced. The Bughmans are at their country home, Melrose farm, near Greensburg, where Mr. White is visiting them. The engagement is one of the most interesting of the year, and is announced just on the eve of Miss Bughman's departure for the east, where she will spend several weeks visiting at Point Pleasant and at other seaside resorts.

Miss Bughman has been an acknowledged belle in society ever since she made her debut, and belongs to the little coterie of girls and young matrons which includes Miss Darlington, Miss Laughlin, Mrs. Frederick C. The letters of Miss Merkley, whose picture is printed above, and Miss Claussen prove beyond question that thousands of cases of inflammation of the ovaries and womb are annually cured by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Gradual loss of strength and nerve force told me something was radically wrong with me. I had severe shooting pains throught the pelvic organs, cramps and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor said that I had ovarian trouble and ulceration, and advised an operation. I strongly objected to this and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon found that my judgment was correct, and that all the good things said about this medicine were true, and day by day I felt less pain and increased appetite. The ulceration soon healed, and the other complications disappeared and in eleven weeks I was once more strong and vigorous and perfectly well.

"My heartiest thanks are sent to you for the great good you have done me."—Sincerely yours, MISS MARGARET MERKLEY, 275 Third St., Milwaukee, Wis.

Miss Claussen Saved from a Surgical Operation.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—It seems to me that all the endorsements that I have read of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound do not express one-half of the virtue the great medicine really possesses. I know that it saved my life and I want to give the credit where it belongs. I suffered with ovarian trouble for five years, had three operations and spent hundreds of dollars on doctors and medicines but this did not cure me after all.

"However, what doctors and medicines failed to do, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did. Twenty bottles restored me to perfect health and I feel sure that had I known of its value before, and let the doctors alone, I would have been spared all the pain and expense that fruitless operations cost me. If the women who are suffering, and the doctors do not help them, will try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, they will not be disappointed with the results."—MISS CLARA M. CLAUSSEN, 1307 Penn St., Kansas City, Mo.

Packing House Strikers Are Determined to Force President Roosevelt to Act.

EMPLOYERS REFUSE TO CONFER

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—The stock yards strike tonight seems no nearer a settlement than it did the day the struggle began. Efforts of a committee composed of retail butchers and grocers to bring about a conference between the packers and the strike leaders were of no avail today. The retailers' committee was in conference with Edward Tilden, John E. Maurer, Thomas Wilson and Thomas J. Connors, representing the packers, for three hours this afternoon, and at the end of the meeting the following statement was given out by the committee of business men:

"We were courteously received by a committee representing the packers, and we were informed that considering all that had passed, and present conditions, no good reason existed why any further conference with the strikers would be beneficial."

No statement was issued by the packers regarding the conference, and they all refused to discuss the matter further than to confirm the statement given out by the intermediary committee.

Will Start Federal Suit.

When the strike leaders were informed of the determination of the packers to refuse to enter into further conferences with the unionists they began to form plans to force the hand of the legal department of the United States government, in an endeavor to bring about a settlement. A move was decided upon by the legal advisers of the strikers after they had received what they considered reliable information that the attorney general would not make a move to bring into operation the perpetual injunction now held by the government against combinations among the packing firms unless ordered to do so by President Roosevelt.

The plan, in effect, is this: Tomorrow or next day an action will be started in the federal court in the name of a striker who holds stock in one of the biggest of the packing concerns, demanding that the injunction be put into operation on the ground that the illegal combination still exists and that through it the shareholders are suffering a loss. This, it is expected by the strike leaders, will induce Attorney General Moody to take up the fight and force the packers to produce their books and contracts in open court.

The officials of the Market Wagon Drivers' union have ordered a vote to be taken by the union on Sunday on the question of a strike of these men.

"There will be a meeting of the 3,000 grocery and market wagon drivers Sunday afternoon," said Business Agent Kelly of this union, "and if peace is not secured by that time—something definite done between the retailers and the packers—our men will undoubtedly decide to join the other unions already on strike. Should such a decision be reached at this meeting, the meat supply of the city will be cut off Monday morning."

Building Commissioner Williams and Health Commissioner Reynolds finished their inspection today into the sanitary conditions surrounding the various packing plants where strike breakers are being housed. The report of the investigation will, it is said, be ready for Mayor Carter Harrison tomorrow.

Sanitary Laws Violated.

At the Schwarzchild & Sulzberber plant the inspectors found that 400 of the firm's non-union workers were housed on three floors of the cooling building, and that there was no ventilation except through two small doors. There is not a window in the structure. Mr. Williams ordered every cot taken out of the building.

Alderman Peter Wendling and John Joyce, business agent of the Butchers' Union, made an effort to accompany the city officials through Armour & Co.'s plant. They were refused admittance, as were also newspaper men.

The investigators visited an old storage house of Armour & Co., where they found 600 beds on the third and fourth floors. When the investigators emerged, Commissioner Williams intimated that the quarters were crowded, and that the fire fighting apparatus was not adequate to protect life.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The engineers and firemen in the packing plants of Schwarschild & Sulzberger will be called out on strike in sympathy with the butcher workmen. This decision was reached at a meeting of representatives of the striking unions this afternoon.

Police Capt. Lanley conferred with representatives of Schwarzschild & Sulzberger and the United Stock Yard Butcher company today and as a result 50 policemen were sent to the slaughter house district and 50 more will be sent there after midnight tonight. The policemen will look after the yards and will also go out on the wagons that leave early in the morning. Many men were employed this afternoon in placing large calcium lights along the company's docks to be used in aiding the policemen in watching the property. It was announced that the men who had taken the place of the strikers would sleep at night on barges, which were today placed alongside the docks.

A.P.A. GRAND LODGE IS NOW IN SESSION

VISITORS AT SEASIDE HOTELS

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau.
Young's Ocean Pier,
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 11.

With half a hundred delegates in attendance the fifty-fourth annual session of the Grand Lodge of American Protective association is being held in this city. The order, which was organized in Pittsburgh in 1849, is opposed to any union of church and state, or the appropriation of any state money for sectarian purposes.

Action will be taken on a resolution introduced last year and laid over, which would permit a portion of what is known as the permanent fund of $15,000 to be used for the running expenses of the grand lodge, the money so used to be replaced from the next annual receipts of the association. There are 370 lodges in the association, and state grand lodges in New Jersey, Pennsylania, Ohio and Missouri. The membership consists of 40,832, an increase of 3,168 over last year. Pennsylvania leads with 20,730 members. The lodges have $396,992 invested, receiving last year $196,744.

The yacht Loula Allen of this city, which left Ocean City yesterday afternoon for Atlantic City, ran afoul of the end of Young's ocean pier shortly after midnight with disastrous results to some of the rigging of the craft. Some of the members of the party did not care to take any further chances on the yacht, and 30 got off on the pier. It was discovered that the yacht had lost her rudder, and after getting her afloat she was safely steered into the harbor with oars from the lifesavers' boat.

CASSATT STOPS SUNDAY WORK ON NEW STATION

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Basing his action on purely moral grounds, President Cassatt of the Pennsylvania railroad has ordered all Sunday work stopped on the new Washington union station.

Contractors who are at work on the station, the total cost of which is to be about $4,000,000, have been pushing the work in order to finish the job by next year if possible. The accommodations afforded by the Pennsylvania railroad in Washington at present are entirely inadequate.

President Cassatt's action was the result of a complaint filed with him by the International Reform bureau of this city, in answering the complaint he thanked the bureau for the information, and said:

"If our employes or contractors have been engaged in Sunday work in connection with the new station building at Washington, directions will be given to have this immediately stopped."

The reform bureau has also appealed to the war department to have Sunday work on the filtration plant stopped.

Secures Foreign Exhibitors.

PORTLAND, ORE., Aug. 11.—According to Henry E. Dosch, director of exhibits of the Lewis and Clark fair, who returned from St. Louis today, Japan, China, Germany, France, Belgium, Australia, Italy and Hungary have signified their intention to exhibit.

"WHIZ!! WALK A MILE"

Is a laconic definition of a toboggan ride. It's quick work going down the slide, but it's a long climb back to the starting point. It is very much that way with health; it is quickly lost and slowly regained. When the first symptoms of failing health appear, proper care may prevent the descent to utter weakness and debility. Usually the complication of disorders known as general debility has its origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. These diseases are perfectly cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures through the stomach disorders which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach.

There is no alcohol in the "Discovery," neither opium, cocaine nor other narcotic.

"I was all run down; had no strength; had sharp darting pains all through me; head and back ache every day," writes Mrs. Frank Caswell, of Salamanca, N. Y. "I was also troubled with a distressed feeling in the stomach and pain in front of the hip bones. Had a severe cough and it nearly killed me to draw a long breath. I was so sore through my lungs.

"I wrote to Dr. Pierce, telling my symptoms as near as I could. He sent me a very kind letter, asking me to try his medicines, which I did, and before I had taken them a week I was decidedly better. I took two bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two of the 'Favorite Prescription,' and am sure I never felt better in my life than when I quit taking them."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a cure for biliousness.

STOCKS AND GRAIN BUOYANT, CLOSING AT NET ADVANCES

Wheat Above $1 04, Corn Above 54c and a Half Score Railroad Stocks Reached the Highest Prices of the Year.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The rather unusual spectacle was presented yesterday of buoyant markets for both railroad stocks and grain. The movements were not wholly illogical. The government crop report indicated a shortage in wheat, and the damage which has occurred since the compilation of the government's figures will probably further reduce the estimate of 605,000,000 bushels; but it is as certain as such things can be in advance of the event, that the country will harvest the largest cotton and corn crops in its history. Careful calculations have estimated the increased value of the cotton crop to the south of between $60,000,000 and $70,000,000 over an average crop at average prices, and the distribution of that increased sum in the section immediately affected will have a stimulating effect upon all lines of business. It was not strange, therefore, that Southern Railway common and preferred, Texas Pacific, and Missouri, Kansas & Texas common and preferred should have advanced to the highest prices of the year, and that Louisville & Nashville should have ruled strong and higher. The strength of these stocks would naturally exert a sympathetic effect upon other railroad stocks.

With Nebraska, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana showing a large improvement in corn and a condition higher than the ten-year average, it was not strange that the corn-carriers should rule strong. Chicago & Northwestern was more active than for a long time past and advanced to 183½, the highest price of the year. St. Paul was also very strong, advancing to 149½. This is a spring wheat road, but it also traverses a good corn country. There is little doubt that the stock has been sold short because of the reported damage to spring wheat, and this short interest was also a sustaining factor in the market. Rock Island and Atchison were also firm and higher.

The advance in wheat, which carried the price of the new September option to $1 04⅞ and closed at $1 03⅞, was based upon fresh damage reports from the northwest and also upon the covering of a short interest which had counted upon the government report to bring selling to take profits. The dealings were on an enormous scale, and indicated that the country was taking the speculation out of the hands of the professionals and was now running the market. Foreign markets did not sympathize with the advance here, but it is not unlikely that they will respond today. The advance of corn in the face of the government figures indicating the largest crop ever raised was probably based upon the announcement that Austro-Hungary had prohibited the further exportation of foodstuffs, including corn and barley. Last year Austro-Hungary raised 123,000,000 bushels corn and 119,000,000 bushels barley, and exported about 15,000,000 bushels of the latter grain. The action of the government was taken to indicate general conditions in the Danubian states, which last year exported a total of 42,000,000 bushels corn. The inference is that foreign consumptive needs must be drawn to a larger extent than last year from the United States. Yesterday, however, the export clearances of wheat and flour were extremely light, amounting to only 27,000 bushels. Foreign consumers are apt to exhaust home supplies before consenting to pay current high prices. They pursued exactly the same course last year in regard to cotton. The primary movement of wheat continues on a large scale, the receipts yesterday being 852,000 bushels, against 504,000 bushels for the corresponding day last year. The shipments were 546,000 bushels. So long as prices remain high the farmer will hasten to market his crop, and this will mean increased earnings for the railroads handling the grain.

The only heavy stock in yesterday's market, and the only prominent one to show a loss for the day, was U. S. Steel preferred. It opened at 58⅝ and in the early dealings advanced to 59¼. From this point there was a quick break in the afternoon to 57⅛ and a recovery to 58⅜ at the close. Professional traders are hearish on the stock and rumors were again circulated of cuts in steel products. Minor iron and steel stocks were neglected. Amalgamated Copper opened at 52⅝, advanced to 53¼ and closed at the opening price. Sugar was less active but firm. Peoples Gas was strong and advanced to the highest price of the year.

There was some irregularity in the tractions, and late in the afternoon a severe break occurred in Metropolitan Street Railway, while at the same time Metropolitan Securities displayed great buoyancy and advanced to the highest price of the year.

The strongest stock of the entire railroad group was Southern Pacific, which advanced to 54⅞ and closed at the top, the highest price of the year. There was a rumor that the company had declared an initial dividend of 1½ per cent, but this was unfounded. Union Pacific was also strong and higher, reaching 98¼. London was reported a buyer of both stocks.

The weakness in Crucible Steel preferred was the only prominent feature in the local stock market. The stock broke to 35⅝ on sales of less than 500 shares, but recovered to 36¼ at the close, a net loss for the day of ⅞ per cent. The common stock was ¼ fraction lower at 5½. U. S. Steel preferred closed ¼ per cent lower at 58⅜. Harbison-Walker common and preferred were strong and higher. The coal stocks were heavy and neglected. Westinghouse Electric was steady to firm at 70¾ to 70¼. American Sewer Pipe sold at 21 and the bonds were firm at 97⅜ bid.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

There was no explanation for the weakness in Crucible Steel preferred, which sold down to 35⅜ and recovered to 36¼, other than the heaviness in steel stocks generally. In fact, it was regarded as quite significant that United States Steel preferred should decline in the New York market, while the tone of the list there was buoyant and in many individual cases the highest prices of the year were reached. As to the current gossip relating to a contest for control of Pittsburgh capital of the Crucible stockholders, it can be said that there is a very strong feeling on the part of some outside stockholders that they have not been dealt with in the courtesy due partners in a business, and it will not be surprising if an effort were made to obtain representation on the board. The fiscal year of the company ends with this month, and the annual meeting will be held the third week in October.

Westinghouse Electric was inactive yesterday, but the tone of the market was steady to firm. There was nothing done in either Airbrake or Union Switch & Signal.

Harbison-Walker common advanced to 6¾ and the preferred advanced to 52 bid, while the bonds were firm at par bid.

Local sales of Tonopah Extension were reported yesterday at $1 08. The recent decline in the stock was probably based upon knowledge of the fact that a block of treasury stock was to be sold for the purpose of continuing developments. It is understood that 15,000 shares treasury stock was sold at par and since this sale the market has been advancing.

American Sewer Pipe sold to the extent of 500 shares at 21, Sproul to Morris, Brown & Co.

Wall street dispatch: Although one active Pittsburgh house returned its borrowed Steel preferred a week ago, after renewing it for some slight consideration, it is said that at least a half dozen large houses who have had a bear account open in the stock for at least as long. It is not too much to say that this bear account is by far the strongest support to the market.

The receipts of the Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Connellsville Railway Company for the six months ending June 30, 1904, are reported $395,683.80, which amount is more than enough to pay all operating expenses, taxes and interest on bonds outstanding. Sales of the bonds yesterday were at 99½.

Of the $3,000,000 gold engaged in New York yesterday for export tomorrow, $1,000,000 was cancelled by cable. Call money loaned at ⅝@1 per cent.

According to the weekly review of the Coal Trade Journal, "the bituminous trade does not show much improvement. It is true that a large tonnage is moving, but the unsolicited transient orders that give snap to the trade are still lacking, or if something is done occasionally in this line a period of quiet follows. However, it seems to be accepted as a fact that the worst condition of the year has passed and if the trade does not materially improve towards activity, each gradual advance that is made will mean something gained, the industry will not drop back quite so low as its previous condition. The conference of the Pocahontas and other operators held at the substantial fixing of a price for the coal from those fields, has had a good effect in the trade, and if no untoward incident transpires to offset this advantage, the operators by other territory may be encouraged to get together and do something in the same line."

Local coal stocks were very dull yesterday, and the tone was barely steady.

A rumor in Wall street that the Pennsylvania railroad contemplated forcing a large sum held no effect upon the stock and was discredited.

The period when railroads will enter the markets as buyers of materials and supplies will mark at least a recovery in general trade, but railroad men are not agreed as to when that time will come; some believe that it will be in October and November and others put the time off until next spring and possibly until the autumn of 1905. One of the shrewdest railroad men in Pittsburgh is of the opinion that railroads will be compelled to economize for two years or more.

The drop in the Pennsylvania railroad's expenditures in June was at the rate of more than $22,000,000 a year. While such drastic retrenchment is on, it is idle to look for general improvement, and especially in midsummer.

Most railroad men expect a much larger traffic and more profitable business in the fall. Pennsylvania officials are confident of improvement, and some of them look for quite lively times in the late months of the year. There are some railroad men who do not look for any marked favorable change until next year. These gentlemen say that the industrial and commercial situation is in much worse condition than is generally believed or understood, and that it will be a long time before recover from the effects of overproduction and the extravagances of the boom period.

Gross earnings of Illinois Central for June decreased $63,334, but net earnings increased $134,258.

The gross earnings of Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh for the first week in August were $152,867, a decrease of $16,897. For the same week Wabash increased $48,721.

The Rand gold output in July was 307,840 ounces against 308,210 in June, which also showed increase from the previous month. A falling off of 1,563 in the number of Kaffir laborers employed was reported.

London bought about 15,000 shares yesterday, principally Southern and Union Pacific, and sold United States Steel preferred.

Dow-Jones say that no definite action was taken at the meeting of the billet association yesterday, but that another transaction of the nature of the Republic-Pittsburgh Steel will lead to disruption of the pool.

An official of a railroad in the northwest sent the following message: "Careful investigation shows no serious damage by frost to crops adjacent to our line. Reports of wheat crop in northwest are growing more favorable. It looks as though the rust scare was somewhat exaggerated, although there is no doubt that the crop has been damaged."

Wheat was higher in Chicago than in Liverpool yesterday, and commission houses were advising caution on the long side of the market.

On the New York curb market Southern Pacific preferred was quoted at 110@112 "when issued."

One New York commission house was credited with buying 5,000 shares Northwest yesterday. The stock advanced to the highest price of the year.

The New York bond market was active and strong, sales reaching $3,920,000. United States old 4s advanced a quarter and the new 4s coupons ⅝ per cent on call.

The disturbance aroused in the steel trade by the discussion over the steel billet cut has developed a suspicion that conditions in that trade are not as tranquil as have been represented in the maintenance of agreements for sustaining prices. United States Steel preferred showed a very slight response at any time to the strength of the market and its late drop helped much to unsettle the tone.

According to the Boston News bureau the entrance of the New Haven railroad into the electric railway field is generally regarded with disfavor. To date the New Haven railroad, through its subsidiary company, the Consolidated Railway Company, has taken over eight systems of street railways, for which it has paid approximately $10,000,000 and assumed the guarantee upon $1,500,000 of 4 per cent bonds. Its $10,000,000 investment is represented by $9,700,000 of stock of the Consolidated Railway Company, the total issue, all of which is in the treasury of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railway Company. The acquisitions represent 269 miles of road. The New Haven interests paid $10,000,000 in cash and $1,500,000 in 4 per cent bonds for properties with a combined capital stock of $8,458,000, guarantees the interest on $5,940,000 of underlying bonds and assumes a floating debt of $2,474,000. Total surplus earnings of these roads last year, after charges of $245,378, only amounted to 1.71 per cent on outstanding $9,700,000 on stock of the Consolidated Railways Company, and as these properties have $2,474,000 of floating debt it is not to be expected that the New Haven treasury will secure any return upon its $10,000,000 street railway investment for some time to come. The acquisition of the above lines makes the New Haven railroad the largest owner of street railways in Connecticut.

The Connecticut Railway and Lighting Company, owned by the United Gas Improvement Company, controls 175 miles of street railway lines in Connecticut, serving 19 cities and towns, with a population of nearly 500,000 people; yet for the year ended June 30, 1904, this company earned but $650,000, after charges to apply upon a capital stock of $15,000,000. This company operates in the manufacturing cities of Bridgeport, Waterbury and Norwalk. It is reported that the New Haven railroad is seeking control of this company. It is apparent that electric traction in Connecticut has not been especially profitable, and it is not apparent how the New Haven railroad in control can improve the situation.

THREE APARTMENT HOUSES PLANNED

One Will Be Built in North Avenue, Allegheny, and Two in Extreme East End.

EAST ECONOMY WAREHOUSE

Apartment house building is increasing at a rate that shows how rapidly such buildings are increasing in popularity in Pittsburgh. Three large apartment houses were announced yesterday all to be built this fall. If the plans now maturing carry. The most pretentious of these will be at the northeast corner of North avenue and Palo Alto street, Allegheny. W. P. Frazer purchased the site, a lot 60x180 feet, extending back to a 20-foot alley, last week. Mr. Fraser is now contemplating the erection of a four or five-story building to cover nearly the entire lot. If the project goes through the building will be the finest apartment hotel in Allegheny. Twice before this site has been spoken of as a place for an apartment hotel and in one instance plans for the building were prepared. The location is probably the best on the North Side for this purpose, and the size and surroundings of the lot make it conform to the new state law regarding apartment house buildings. Such a building as Mr. Fraser proposes to erect would cost about $100,000.

Three other apartment houses are planned for the East End district. One of them will be erected by C. H. Korns from plans already prepared by Architect R. B. Milligan of Wilkinsburg. It will be a four-story fireproof brick structure standing on a lot 142x185 feet, on the south side of Kelly street, between Collier street and Braddock avenue, Twenty-first ward. The building will contain 32 apartments of five and six rooms each. In this local ty These will probably cost $45,000. The estimated cost of the building, for which bids are now being taken, is put at $80,000. Mr. Korns bought the site a few months ago from Marshall & Miller.

A $65,000 apartment house will be built in Wilkinsburg by G. G. Wible. The site is a lot 160x126 feet, on the south side of Penn avenue, between Peebles and Trenton avenues, First ward, and was purchased the week from Paul Zimmerman for $15,000. Two buildings will be erected, each four stories high and containing eight apartments of seven rooms and bath. Work on the buildings will be started soon, it is said.

Storage House to Cost $25,000.

The Economy Distilling Company, whose distillery is at Fair Oaks, or East Economy, adjoining Ambridge, and near the old town of Economy, has awarded the contract to Rollinger Brothers of Pittsburgh for building a barrel warehouse to cost $25,000. The building will hold 20,000 barrels and will be used for the storage of whiskies. The distillery was built six years or more ago on a three-acre site. Nearly 40 houses have recently been built in this immediate neighborhood. Several industrial concerns are now considering sites at Economy and one of them may close a deal for property there within a week.

Virginia sweets also made a like decline. Tomatoes were firmer and prices were marked up to 75 and 90 cents for six basket crates.

Canteloupes were more plentiful than any other product. Sales have been much smaller than receipts for several days and yesterday choice canteloupes were sold at $1 90 and $2 25. Peaches on the other hand made a stiff showing in the day's business and were sold at $1 25 freely. Bananas are 25 cents lower and stock is in good supply.

Spring chickens have taken another drop of one cent. Large springers are now quoted at 14 and 15 cents, and small ones at 12 and 13 cents a pound. Very little poultry is arriving on the rivers and the demand is reported fairly good for this season.

The government crop report was far from satisfactory to flour dealers who were more or less at a loss to know how to interpret the situation. As a result prices were allowed to stand yesterday. Oats are arriving in large quantities, a few in a heated condition. No sales of importance were reported on the exchange yesterday although frequent deals for car load lots are made outside.

General Storekeeper Selected for the Baltimore & Ohio

The officials of the purchasing, operating and maintenance of way departments of all divisions of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad met in the Hotel Henry yesterday to outline the duties of the general storekeeper, a new office created a few days ago. E. H. Blanchard, general purchasing agent, presided.

The new office is designed to handle the supplies of the entire system, thus relieving the division storekeepers of all matters pertaining to the purchase of goods and delivery of supplies.

E. A. Williams was appointed general storekeeper, and his experience in the purchasing agent department fits him for his new position. The object is to centralize as much as possible the handling of supplies. Mr. Williams will commence his new duties September 1.

Chicago Freight Depot Completed.

The Baltimore & Ohio railroad announces the completion of what is claimed to be the finest freight depot in Chicago. It will be used entirely for inbound freight, and is at Franklin and Polk streets. The house has been specially designed to afford the most improved facilities for the handling of freight. Is 700 feet long, and equipped with the continuous door systems, making it possible to accommodate any number of wagons at one time without delay. It is understood the company contemplates erecting a duplicate structure for the accommodation of outbound freight, the cost of the entire improvement amounting to $100,000.

Short of Subjects for Discussion.

The American Association of General Passenger Agents will hold its meeting October 18 at Fortress Monroe. According to custom, A. J. Smith, the secretary, is now sending out a notice asking for topics for discussion at the meeting. It seems that live subjects are wanting. The last meeting, which was held at New Orleans, left little unfinished business. The next meeting will be short of suggestions for debate unless there is a response. Mr. Smith suggests that railroad men are never long without something to talk about.

Coal and Coke Report.

The Pennsylvania railroad's statement of coal and coke originating east of Pittsburgh and Erie for the week ending August 6 shows a decrease of about 76,000 tons of anthracite coal and 16,000 tons of coke from the corresponding week of the previous week. Bituminous shipments decreased about 57,000 tons. The shipments for the week were 33,833 tons of anthracite coal, 476,526 tons of bituminous and 126,205 tons of coke.

Lined Up Colonist Rates.

The rate clerks of the Central Passenger association lines held a meeting at Columbus yesterday at which colonist rates to the west and southwest were fixed. R. E. Pepper, chief rate clerk of the C. P. A., and all the rate clerks of the association, were present at the meeting.

Railroad Notes.

Passenger engineers on the West Penn road have uniformed yesterday. They are blue and white check, blue collars, blue cuffs and blue braid for binding. The caps are black leather.

The B. & O. commenced work yesterday on the new freight depot at Columbus to cost $330,000 and the 25 tracks leading to the depot, which will cost an additional $150,000.

Coffee and Sugar.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The market for coffee futures opened firm at an advance of five points on a continued demand from European and commission houses, encouraged by the steadiness of European cables and bullish expressions of opinion from the trade interests. Receipts were liberal, however, and predictions for a still heavier movement were in circulation, so that longs having profits turned sellers at the advance and in the afternoon the market sagged off, but recovered the loss in the late trading on rumors of bullish private cables from Brazil. The close was firm at a net gain of 5@10 points. Sales were 81,750 bags, including September at 6.40@6.45c; October at 6.50c; November at 6.60c; December at 6.65@6.75c; January at 6.80@6.85c; March at 7.00c; May at 7.15@7.25c; July at 7.30@7.35c. Coffee—Spot Rio steady; mild firm. Sugar—Raw strong; refined firm.

ANOTHER WILD DAY IN THE WHEAT PIT

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Wheat prices broke the record for the present crop today by an upward whirl of 4¾c to 4⅞c. The closing price was within ⅝c of the top. The motive was the government report, which, without taking into account rust damage within 10 days, estimated the yield of winter and spring wheat at 47,000,000 bushels less than forecasted a month ago. At the close September, as compared with yesterday's final figures, showed a net gain of 2⅜c. Corn is up ⅞@1c. Oats are ⅝@⅞c up. Provisions vary from 2½c higher to 20c lower.

The wheat market, keyed up to the highest pitch of nervousness, seemed to need only the official declaration of the deficit indicated by the government report as a cause for a paroxysm of bullishness. Quantities of long wheat, thrown on the market at the start by unsuspecting longs with profits, produced a momentarily easy tone and a few in the opening figures. Further than that the effect of such selling was practically nil. September values suffered 1 to 1¼c under the opening pressure, the first trades being at 99¾c to 99⅞c. The bullish tone of the government report became at once apparent, although the culmination of its influence did not come until the last hour of trading. Successive gains in the price of September were recorded with the demand becoming more and more general as offerings became lighter. When the $1 09 mark had been passed, the desire to possess wheat seemed to seize upon all alike. Individuals who had been inclined to hesitate, became frantic bulls, while others who had sold short appeared to have become nearly panic stricken. Almost a sheer jump to $1 04⅛ was the result. Fortunate holders of long lines were tempted by the high price and their sales precipitated an advance and brought about a partial reaction. September receded to $1 03¾, but closed strong at $1 03⅞. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 27,000 bushels.

Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 248 cars, against 226 cars last week and 185 cars a year ago.

Corn was active and except at the immediate start, strong. The crowding for September showed a loss of ⅜ to ½c at 53 to 53½c, attributed partially to the large crop indicated by the government report and largely to the initial easy tone of the wheat market. The bulge of the corn later was governed almost entirely by the growing strength in wheat. September corn selling up to 54¾c on the wheat bulge and declining to 54⅜c, the closing figure. Local receipts of corn were 279 cars.

Oats, like the other grain markets, opened lower, but also like the others the lowest prices were at the beginning. The later strength was chiefly sympathetic. September closed firm at 34⅝c, ⅜ under the top, having sold up from 33⅞c, a loss of ⅛c at the start. Local receipts were 279 cars.

Provisions were dull and weak. Heavy receipts of hogs had a depressing effect. September pork at the close was down 20c, at $11 05. Lard is off 2½c at $6 70. Ribs closed 5c lower, at $7 02½. Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 200 cars; corn, 177 cars; oats, 294 cars; hogs, 18,000 head.

The leading futures, reported by John D. Armstrong & Co., members of the Chicago Board of Trade, Farmers Bank building, are as follows:

Cowardly Practice of Sumatra Savages in Battle With Dutch Troops.

ARMY OFFICER'S EXPLANATION

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—An interesting explanation of the killing of large numbers of women and children in the recent fighting between the Dutch expeditions and the natives in North Sumatra is given by Col. H. F. C. Van Bylevelt, a retired officer of the Dutch East Indian army, who has just arrived here. Col. Bylevelt has had 30 years of active service in the Dutch East Indies, and comes to America to place his son in college.

"In the first place," he said today, "these fights did not occur at Atjeh, or Achin, as it is usually called in English, but a small expedition of about 200 men under Lieut.-Col. van Daalen was sent to Gajos, and the Alaslands, parts of North Sumatra, but not belonging to Achin. The Alas natives are well armed, but their rifles do not carry as far as those of our troops. In order to overcome this disadvantage, their leaders, being well aware of the disinclination of our men to harm women and children, place them in front of their fighting line as a living screen.

"The women and children are sometimes armed and have often fired at our troops. Sheltered by this screen the natives often allow our men to approach within point blank range of their positions. Then they discharge an overwhelming fire in almost all engagements they have followed the same tactics, though repeatedly warned by our officers. As a rule our troops withhold their fire as long as possible, but they dare not run the risk of being overwhelmed by a sudden rush of the natives from behind their living wall, and are often forced to fire regardless of the women and children.

"It should be borne in mind," continued Col. Van Bylevelt, "that our expeditions have nearly always had to fight against 10 times their number and also that they cannot risk being defeated, being far distant from the main army and unable to properly care for their wounded. Although their arms are inferior to ours, a few of their volleys delivered at short range and followed by a general attack would soon overpower our usually small forces and bring about the failure of the whole expedition, which is undertaken for the purpose of bringing about a better condition of the natives at large, who, too often, are misled by designing ring leaders. Col. Van Daalen's expedition is accompanied by native guides, and by Radja Pattambang, the legal chief of the Gajos.

"Regrettable as it is, experience has shown that it is utterly impossible to induce the natives to abandon their cowardly tactics of hiding behind their women and children, and it is equally impossible that we should abandon our purpose because of this action.

"The explanation which I have made was recently given in part by Lieut.-Gen. Van Heutz, military commander and civil governor of Achin and dependencies, who, summoned by the queen, is now in Holland. From personal experience of suffering more than 30 years in our East Indian army, I know that no one regrets more the killing of women and children than do our officers and men, but unfortunately, it has been absolutely unavoidable."

SAYS CAPTORS WILL CUT OFF FINGERS AND TOES

Father of Kidnaped Brooklyn Boy Receives a Letter Signed by His Son.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Vincenzio Mannino, the Italian contractor of Brooklyn, whose 9-year-old son, Antonio, has been kidnaped, today offered a reward of $500 for the return of the boy, and also offers to pay liberally for any information concerning his lost child.

A letter received by the Mannino family has been turned over to the police. The boy's name was signed to the letter which stated that his fingers and toes would be cut off if the ransom was not paid. This letter was mailed in Hoboken last night. Another letter turned over to the police, the contents of which they refuse to divulge, was mailed from the upper part of this city.

Mannino is without any clue to his boy's whereabouts despite the fact that two men are under arrest in the case. Francisco Conoglio, who was arrested yesterday, was today held in $2,000 bail when arraigned in a police court. The other prisoner is Angelo Cucozza, 10 years old, who says he brought the boy to the borough of Manhattan.

Antonio Corneglio, wife of Francisco Corneglio, was arrested today. The police believe that she can be made to shed some light on the mystery of the Mannino boy's whereabouts. As she was being taken from her house Mrs. Corneglio suddenly complained of illness and she was sent to Bellevue hospital. The police suspect her illness is feigned.

TURKISH CRISIS EXPECTED TODAY

Sultan Again Disappoints Uncle Sam in Not Answering Demands.

ENGLAND WOULD AID AMERICA

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The crisis of the Turkish situation is expected by the state department to develop tomorrow when the American fleet reaches Smyrna.

Admiral Jewell's squadron is proceeding to Smyrna under slow speed. His orders, it develops, contained precautionary provisions. A collier was dispatched from Gibraltar, but the possibility that the warships might not connect with the fuel boat led the navy department to provide against any emergency, hence the slow speed order. By running under slow pressure the warships will have coal enough to get away from the levant with Minister Leishman should it be deemed wise to order his departure.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Beyond general sympathy the British government is evincing no interest in the naval demonstration of the United States in Turkish waters. No instructions have been given to Ambassador O'Conor at Constantinople, since it is not regarded necessary to take such a step. It is expected that he will not fail to personally support Minister Leishman, should the necessity for so doing arise, because the American action will be helpful to British missionary interest. The government here believes the questions between the United States and Turkey will be promptly settled.

FORMER SENATOR VEST BURIED IN ST. LOUIS

State and City Honor the Distinguished Dead—Old Law Partners Were Pallbearers.

MADE QUICK REMOVAL.

Rosenbaum Company Makes a Hurried Change from Market to Fifth Avenue and Continue Business.

One of the quickest jobs of store moving ever accomplished in Pittsburgh was done Wednesday night in the big establishment of the Rosenbaum Company in Market street. At 5 o'clock in the afternoon goods were being sold as usual on the two floors of the McClintock building, which the Rosenbaum Company has occupied for several years. At 11 o'clock that night every counter and shelf had been cleared and the goods were packed away in order in the various departments of the fifth avenue store. A force of over 400 people was required to perform the task, and so well was it done that customers yesterday morning were waited on as usual and had no trouble in finding the various departments.

The movement was made necessary by the improvements which the firm will make to the McClintock building. Recently it secured a long lease on the entire building, five floors and basement, and yesterday started improvements that will cost with the fixtures $100,000. The entire interior of the building will be torn out, and with the exception of the walls the structure will be practically new. Architects Rutan & Russell planned the changes and the contract for the work has been awarded to Godwin & Crick. The first floor of the building will be finished by November 15 and the remainder by December 1.

The McClintock building was the original building occupied by the Rosenbaum store. As its business enlarged it secured the Fifth avenue store rooms. Both these stores have been entirely too small to accommodate the trade for a year past, and now the McClintock building will be made ready for the firm's use. This building alone will give the firm twice the floor space that it now occupies in both buildings. The six floors will have approximately 45,000 square feet of space.

Nothing that is essential to a modern store building will be omitted in the improvements. The basement will be made water proof. The entire building will be strictly fire proof. To insure the greatest safety, two automatic sprinkling systems will be installed. One will be for the interior and similar to those used in several of the large city stores. The other will be an automatic contrivance on the outside of the building.

MISSING DRAFTS RETURNED.

They Aggregated $9,000 and Were Stolen While in Transit Through Mail.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Eighty-three drafts, aggregating $9,000, which had been stolen from the United States mail, were recovered by the Jersey City police today. The drafts were mailed by the Second National bank of Washington to the Second National bank of New York on July 24. During transmission they disappeared, and secret service men, private detectives and the Jersey City police have been searching for them ever since.

Clues that were followed led to the arrest today of Constantine Milenski, 22 years old, of Jersey City. The police say that the missing drafts were found in his room. Milenski says he found the drafts in a car from Washington.

CLOTHING FIRMS WILL NOT CONFER WITH STRIKERS

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—A committee from the Chicago Federation of Labor called on the ready-made clothing manufacturers this afternoon and asked the employers to meet the striking cutters, bushelmen and trimmers. The firms flatly refused, saying that they had decided to operate under the open shop policy, and they had nothing to discuss with their employes.

BUSINESS MEN TO MAKE HARD FIGHT

BEER TRAFFIC IN PUSH CARTS

The business men who have decided to fight the disorderly houses on the lower avenues are in the contest to stay. The petition which was circulated along the avenues recently received a good list of signers and was sent to Director Harry Moore for his consideration. Yesterday business firms who signed the petition received the following letter:

Pittsburgh, Aug. 10.

Gentlemen: In order to call the attention of Director of Public Safety Harry Moore to the petition we sent him requesting him to close up and keep closed the disorderly houses in this district, won't you for the next month, about once a week, write him a letter calling his attention to the character of the people located in this neighborhood? Letters of this kind will help the cause.

The letter was signed by a man who represents large interests on the lower avenues. It was discussed in several places yesterday. Many of the business men regard Director Moore's statement that they are wasting their time and money by raising a fund to oust the disorderly houses as a thrust at their business integrity, and will take aggressive measures to show they are in earnest.

Director Moore made the following statement yesterday:

I do not know of the reported fund or organization, but if the business men are taking these steps they are wasting their time and money. Of course we recognize the necessity of disorderly houses, but between the business men and the women of the disorderly houses there is but one side to be favored. We must accommodate the reputable business people of the city and we will make any changes they suggest. If the merchants will notify me of any disreputable house in any neighborhood, I will order it closed and keep it closed. Of course there are powerful friends of the women in these houses who come to me for favors for them, but we will have to put aside their requests if they conflict with the requests of business houses. I had a talk with Mayor Hays this morning, and he agreed that we must heed the requests of business men in preference to those of the women and their friends. It is out of the question to close the houses entirely and undesirable to scatter them all over the city, but where they interfere with business or the employes of business houses from using certain streets we will remedy the evil.

In some parts of the lower avenues the beer wagons have lately ceased to make their appearance, and this has given rise to the impression that the houses are being kept unusually quiet. Beer goes there, however, in large quantities, according to the statements of reputable merchants nearby, but the traffic is carried on in a more cunning way. Push carts may be seen coming out of alleys at almost any hour. These, merchants say, are loaded with cases of beer carefully concealed with cloth covers. The beer is taken into the houses and the empty bottles taken out in the same way.

That the proprietors of the disorderly houses are not greatly worried by any aggressive stand on the part of the department of public safety is shown by the improvements they are making. Several of them have bought property along the lower avenues the past year, taking title to it themselves. This it is claimed, is only a blind, as the real owners are prominent city politicians, who have the women's names inserted in the deeds in order that they may not be taken up for renting their properties for disreputable uses. One woman in Second avenue, who recently secured property, is said to have spent $14,000 in remodeling it. Another Second avenue resort is now being improved with a new front, and similar improvements are being made in other parts of the avenues.

TRAIN WRECKERS FAIL IN MURDEROUS EFFORT

NORTHAMPTON, MASS., Aug. 11.—The officials of the Massachusetts Central railroad are investigating an attempt to wreck a passenger train between Hadley and this place last night. About three miles out of Northampton the engineer noticed that the air seemed full of splinters, and as the train was traveling at a speed of 40 or 45 miles an hour he was at an utter loss to account for it. When the train pulled into Northampton an examination showed that a railroad tie about eight inches wide and six inches thick was wedged under the pilot. It had been carried in such a way that it had scraped the roadbed for the entire distance, and had threatened the safety of the train at every joint. In entering the Northampton yard the train crossed a number of tracks and switches, but the tie remained fast.

TRANSCRIPT OF TRIAL COSTS COUNTY $2,000

Seymour Barrington, the alleged English lord who was convicted at Claytonsville some months ago on a charge of murdering James P. McCann, the horseman, and sentenced to the hanged. Following presentation to the supreme court with the appeal, the transcript duplicates will have to be compared with the original at an additional cost of $1,000. This is the most expensive and extensive transcript ever gotten up in St. Louis county.

Platt, the aged millionaire, to recover property worth $585,000. ## POLICE AND BLUE JACKETS FIGHT FOREST FIRES

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Aug. 11.—The ravages of forest fires along the outskirts of St. Johns continue this evening and threaten the section in which the asylum for the insane, containing 200 patients, is situated. A force of police, with a detachment of blue jackets from the British cruiser Charybdis and the French warship Troude, have gone to the scene in an endeavor to prevent the fire from destroying the asylum and other buildings. The conflagration is so extensive that railroad trains are unable to penetrate the forest.

SUBWAY WORK IS NOW ON OPEN SHOP BASIS

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—More than 100 non-union electricians reported for duty in the subway today, having been employed direct by the interborough Rapid Transit Company. The contract was taken away from the construction company, which had completed 80 per cent of the electrical work, by the Interborough company, when the electrical workers went on strike. Working side by side with the non-union men in the tunnel are union men of other trades.

WANTS TO MARRY LAURA BIGGAR

Mrs. Hendricks Says This Is at Bottom of Husband's Prosecution.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

SCRANTON, PA., Aug. 11.—Mrs. C. C. Hendricks, wife of the Brooklyn doctor interested in the Laura Biggar-Bennett fictitious baby case, and from whom she is separated, remains in Scranton despite the unpleasant connection of her name with Albert Burton Hutchinson, the lawyer from Chester, Vt., who was arrested here yesterday on complaint of his wife.

It developed today that Mrs. Hendricks was not put under arrest at all. The warrants, however, were issued against her, and each of four officers given copies of it to serve. Had Mrs. Hendricks been wanted, she was ready to answer the summons, and has remained since with her sister at Martin Flaherty's home, South Scranton, in anticipation of being wanted at Alderman Ruddy's court.

Mrs. Hendricks disclaimed any wrongdoing. She said Attorney Hutchinson was employed by her in her divorce proceedings and other legal matters, and his coming to Scranton was in response to her request to confer on these legal matters. She declared several members of the Flaherty family were present all the time Hutchinson was there. Mrs. Hendricks further says the arrest of Hutchinson is simply part of a plan to keep her from pushing the contempt proceedings against her husband in his failure to pay her the $50 per week alimony ordered by court.

An offer, it is alleged, was made to drop the case against Hutchinson if he would cease assisting Mrs. Hendricks in the contempt proceedings, but this he refused and bail was entered by him for further hearing on August 22. Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson left early this morning for their Vermont home. This afternoon in an interview Mrs. Hendricks said:

"I'll stay here all summer if they want me. I'll stay here till I fight down their lies and prove that I am not what they say. The doctor wants to blacken me so that he can get a divorce to marry Laura Biggar. He told me he only wanted her money, and said if I'd keep my mouth quiet he would make me a rich woman. No, sir, I told him, he will waste her he must choose between her and me. I couldn't stand to see him with her.

"I went to see her at the theater in New York one day and asked her where my husband was. She appeared as unconcerned as if it was the smallest thing in the world we were discussing, and she had the nerve to tell me to engage rooms somewhere in the city, and if they were not too high she would see that they were paid for and that I would be well taken care of. I spurned her and she then said, 'Ah, I see,' and began to powder herself up to get ready to go on the stage.

"So he's with her until he gets her money or until she gets tired of him, and he wants a divorce from me so that he can marry her in hopes that he can get her money quicker that way."

ROOT'S REFUSAL MUST BE MORE EMPHATIC

Otherwise the Former Secretary of War Will Be Nominated for Governor of New York.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—"Elihu Root must take himself out of his field for the governorship in a more positive manner than he has yet indicated or he will be nominated at the Saratoga convention next month."

That was the opinion expressed by a member of the New York Republican state committee after he had been conferring with other memebrs, both before and after a brief meeting of the committee today.

"He will have to make a public declaration through the newspapers, or the convention will put him at the head of the ticket," the member added.

Other members of the committee talked in a similar strain, and the Root boom is again on in earnest. With the convention only about a month away, this kind of talk would indicate that the former secretary of war is to be drafted for the nomination, no matter how much he may dislike it.

While the talk today was all Root, it was not so absolute that an alternative was not suggested.

"If not Root then Higgins will be the man," was the verdict of the committeemen who were giving their attention to the governorship.

THEATER PARTY FOR MERCHANTS

Reception and Dinner Will Follow in Honor of Visiting Business Men.

GOOD TIME ASSURED FOR ALL

Arrangements for rendering the visit of out-of-town merchants to Pittsburgh a notable one were completed at a meeting of the excursion and entertainment and reception committees of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association yesterday afternoon.

The big feature of the entertainment will take place Wednesday evening, August 24. The association has already engaged 500 seats in the Grand Opera house for the evening and will take more, if necessary. This will be the opening week of the Grand's season.

Following the performance at the Grand the visitors will be given a reception and lunch at the Hotel Henry.

Invitations to attend these affairs will be given to every merchant in the territory, and it is expected that the gathering at the Grand and later at the Henry will be the largest meeting of business men from the section surrounding Pittsburgh that was ever held.

This will not be the only feature of the entertainment. The individual business houses belonging to the association have in many cases made provision for entertaining their own trade. Ball games, dinners, etc., have been proposed, and there is no doubt as to the visitors being shown a good time.

Col. A. J. Logan and E. E. Bonneville are the two members of the committee to whom have been entrusted the carrying out of the plans. Both are experienced in these matters, and it is expected that the affair will be well managed.

The invitations that have already gone out to the merchants and other business men within a radius of several hundred miles of this city number many thousands. Advices which have reached the association indicate that the most lively interest is being taken in the coming excursion, and the number of the visitors is expected to be very large. The plans have been arranged on that basis, so that there will be no chance of any one being neglected.

The low rates which have been secured for the trip by the association, both west and east of Pittsburgh, render it possible to make the trip here at lower cost than ever before. The hotels are taking up the matter, and special rates are being made. Special attractions in the way of trade bargains are to be offered at wholesale establishments.

STOMACH TROUBLE NOT HEART DISEASE OR DROPSY.

Testimonial of Mr. Wetzo, Showing How Catarrh of the Stomach is Cured by Dr. Byers.

Mr. John Wetzo, 75 Ontario St., Allegheny, says: "My stomach troubled me so much and I got so weakened down that I could hardly do my work. Frequently when I got home from work I had to get my wife to apply hot cloths to my abdomen to relieve the awful soreness. My abdomen would swell up and become so painful I could not bear my clothes to touch me. My appetite failed and what little I ate caused great pain. The pain would reach up to my heart and make me feel that my heart was affected. I fell away so in flesh and strength and was so weak I could hardly work. My bowels, wouldn't move, my sleep was disturbed and I would get up in the morning as tired and aching and sore as if I had worked all night, instead of being in bed.

"I frequently had spells of rumbling in my bowels just as if water was splashing around in there and I feared dropsy had set in until Doctor Byers explained that it was caused by an accumulation of gas, the result of my food not digesting. A friend took me over to Doctor Byers' office and under his treatment all these distressing conditions have disappeared. The soreness has gone out of my stomach, my appetite has returned, I am gaining in strength and flesh, I sleep well and feel refreshed in the morning, so say to my friends if you are sick Doctor Byers is the doctor to go to, his charge is reasonable and he is good and kind to you."
